HIGHWAY BOND BILL IN SENATE

OIL WELL AGAIN THREATENS BIG CITY

RELIEF FOR STARVING BASIS CONGRESS FIGHT

GREAT OIL FIELD AND ENTIRE CITY NOW ENDANGERED

ONE WORKMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED AS WELL BLOWS CONNECTIONS OFF

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An oil well blew wild inside the city limits of Oklahoma City today, injuring a workman seriously and imperiling the "door step" oil field and adjacent industrial and residential districts.

The well, No. 1 Wapaco of T. B. Slick estate, is about a mile from the citys' principal business block. Lower connections were cut by sand and blow out under great pressure when it was being opened for production. When it was completed last October, the flow was 58,000 barrels daily.

Two companies of the Oklahoma National Guard were ordered out. All city firemen were ordered on duty.

The spray was being blown southeast over the great oil field.

Authorities said much chemical equipment was on hand in the area in case of a fire.

The injured man was A. Rush of Olfton. He was reported struck by a connection.

All fires in a radius of one-half mile around the well were ordered extinguished.

Wild well scares are not new to Oklahoma City. The last dangerous gusher to blow wild was the No. 1 Stout of the Morgan Petroleum Company, which was uncontrolled for three days, spraying the city with oil and gas and placing a large area under

SUNDAY RAID ON HOTEL GIVES NEW RECORDS OF GRAFT

MEN IN HIGH PLACES ALLEGED BE CONNECTED CHICAGO GANGSTERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Records, described by prosecutors as revealing "astounding graft" that reached into high places, was in possession of the law today for presentation to the special grand jury investigating the police department.

The records were seized from two safes found in the Rex hotel, headquarters on the South Side for henchmen of Al "Scarface" Capone in an early Sunday morning raid. Asistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury said they showed dealings between Capone gangsters, politicians, policemen and public officials whose names they "did not even dare to talk about."

Dennis ("The Duke") Cooney, operator of the hotel, the prosecutors said, was shown to have had business of social connections with various officials. Purported "payoff" lists, "ledgers and other papers pertaining to liquor, gambling and vice" were among the documents seized.

Panic prevailed in the underworld after the raiders, described as trusted detectives from the state's attorney's office, surprised the operators of the hotel, and kept

PROBE SUSPECTED MURDER.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Circumstances which police said hinted of murder were being sifted today by officers investigating the death of Charles P. Murdock, 49, wealthy real estate man, whose body was found lying behind his automobile on a lonely road in the Oakland Hills last night.

ROBS UNION STATION.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A youth of quiet voice and dress robbed the ticket offices of the union station of $10,000 in cash early today, locked the clerk into the vault, and left apparently unseen.

Business Leader Falls to Death

F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., and recognized throughout the world as a business leader, fell to his death accidentally from his seventh floor apartment in Chicago, during an attack of vertigo.

SHREVEPORT MOB ROBBED OF INTENDED VICTIM BY DEATH

NEGRO WOUNDED IN FIGHT IN WHICH OFFICERS SLAIN DIED AT MIDNIGHT

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Death in the form of peritonitis claimed Leman McDaniel, negro, at midnight, and dispersed a mob of 1,500 persons, who milled about the hospital where he was being treated for wounds suffered in a police gun fight. The shooting was fatal to two officers.

A few members of the crowd climbed an unguarded fire escape to the negro ward on the third flood, but left after three of the group had been called into the negro's room by Dr. E. L. Sanderson, superintendent, and shown the body.

The entire police force, augmented by sheriff's deputies and a score of city firemen, held most of the crowd to the ground floor.

Mayor J. G. Palmer, Sheriff Tom Hughes and Captain Harry Stahl of the national guard unit here, made speeches.

The negro was brought to the hospital after a raid Saturday night upon his grocery which was lead by three policemen wearing old clothes and with faces blackened. The officers said they suspected the grocery of hiding a gambling den.

In the fight, Teddy Williams, policeman, was shot dead, and Lee Allen Williams, his fellow officer, wounded fatally.

McDaniel denied shooting the officers, naming another negro as the slayer. This negro was arrested and spirited away to a jail.

S. A. Jones, the third policeman, escaped the bullet by lying on the grocery floor. He said McDaniel fired the fatal shots.

The first shots were fired from the grocery. Police said they believed the negroes mistook the blackfaced policemen for bandits.

The raid was part of a drive against lawlessness, the city recently having experienced a series of robberies.

Principal Need of Canning Industry is Good Canopener

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The canning industry needs nothing so much as a good can opener, in the belief of C. E. Hume of San Francisco, president of the National Canning Association which opened its annual convention today.

"Millions of dollars have been spent by manufacturers in perfecting devices for closing cans," Hume said, "and millions more in perfecting the contents. Yet little direct attention has been paid to the fact that if a housewife's task of opening a can were changed from a difficult one to a simple pleasant one, more canned goods would be consumed."

HOOVER HAS MADE MOVE TO ASSURE RED CROSS FUND

CONGRESS IS DETERMINED TO HAND RED CROSS TREASURY FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The attempt of the administration leaders in the senate to defer consideration of the $25,000,000 appropriation for the Red Cross until February 9 was ruled out or order today by Vice President Curtis.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, moved postponement with the argument that the Red Cross be permitted to complete its campaign for $10,000,000 in private subscriptions.

After more than two hours' debate Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, made the point the Reed motion was out of order because of an agreement requiring that the senate vote today on the appropriation.

Vice President Curtis sustained Norris.

Robinson said in the senate he understood Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of President Hoover's employment committee, had recommended a federal appropriation of "at least $100,000,000 for relief work."

He added he had not received the information directly from Col. Woods. Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, said that question had not been asked of Woods

FIFTY INJURED, MANY CRITICALLY IN TRAIN CRASH

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—More than 50 persons were injured, some of them critically, when the New York bound Colonial Express train speeding through a snowstorm, and a passenger local collided at a cross over at Readville today. Both trains were operated by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The locomotive of the express crashed into the rear cars of the local, overturning two of them, and then turning over on its own side. The local carried about 200 passengers.

George Gladding, engineer of the express was pinned within his cab and was extricated by a rescue crew. He was suffering from burns and bruises, but was not believed to be critically injured. His fireman leaped to safety.

Most of the injured were passengers aboard the local. More than 30 were terated at the scene and many others were taken to neighboring hospitals and doctors' offices.

GLYNIA, Polish Corridor, Jan. 1119.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 20 injured today when a freight train crashed into a passenger train.

WOMAN STARTS FLIGHT.

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Lady Victor Bruce, British aviatrix en route around the world by ship and airplane, took off for Midland, Texas, at 8:30 a. m., M. S. T., today. She flew from San Diego, yesterday.

Lady Bruce said Midland would be her next stop unless she decided to land at El Paso.

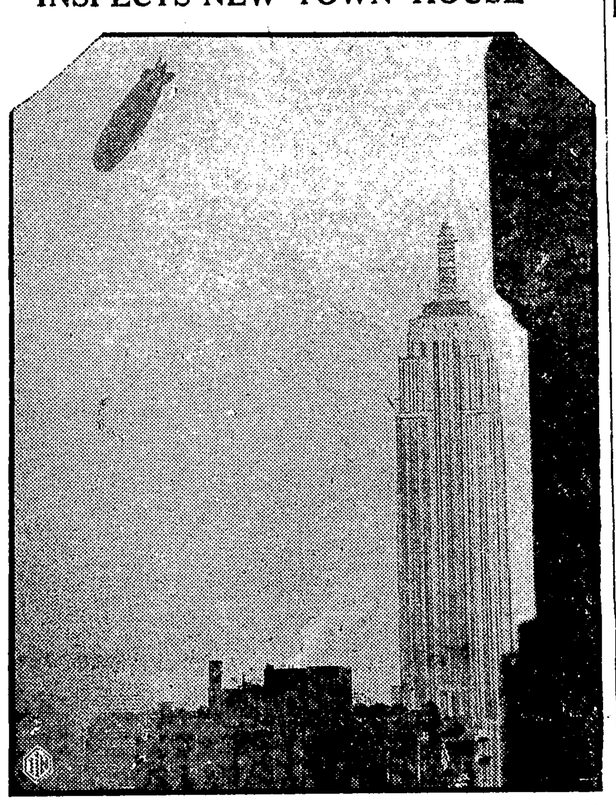

Serious Food Shortage From Samoa Islands

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Reports of a serious food shortage and a request for immediate assistance were received at the navy department today from Capt. G. S. Lincoln, governor of the American Samoan Islands.

The many small islands comprising American Samoa were swept by a typhoon Jan. 14 and 15, damaging naval buildings and ruining cocoanut, banana and taro plantations.

The department has authorized expenditure of $23,000 to repair property damage. Naval officials today said Red Cross aid probably would be solicited.

The mast was built specially for the use of the Los Angeles. The huge bag made the first of a series of training flights before her departure for naval maneuvers off Panama.

Father of Recently Slain Young Port Arthur Girl Held in Death of Man

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A. B. Johnson, who slew 22 year old Otis Lee Adams here Saturday night, was bound over to the grand jury without bond at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing today. The defense offered no testimony.

When Justice B. H. Wiley announced his decision, Johnson's lawyer, C. W. Howth of Beaumont, requested permission to confer with his client in a private room. This, the justice granted.

After the conference, Howth said he would file habeas corpus proceedings in district court at Beaumont, in an effort to obtain bail.

Johnson, himself, dressed in blue, sat staring at the witness stand during nearly all the hearing. Again asked, as the hearing was adjourned, to make a statement he compressed his lips and shook his head vigorously.

The state offered only three witnesses, C. J. Trosclair and J. P. Collier, owners of the pressing shop where Adams was slain, and City Detective C. E. Brown. Nothing not already announced by the witnesses was adduced in the hearing.

Howth, who declined to cross-examine any of the state witnesses, asked as Brown, the last witness, left the stand, that the justice agree to a bond of $10,000 on which the police had released Johnson two hours after the killing.

Assistant County Attorney B. T. McWhorter, Jr., rose to announce: "The state has no particular recommendation. The proof offered seems to make it evident the crime was committed."

"There is no dispute," answered Howth, "that the homicide occurred, but I think your honor (the justice) understands what the shooting was all about."

Held Without Bail

Justice Wiley, who had told newspapermen Johnson had made no explanatory statement of the shooting to him, said nothing in reply except to announce "I will hold him without bond for the grand jury." The body now is in session.

Adams had been "going with" Johnson's 16 year old daughter, Elizabeth, before she died from a bullet wound mysteriously inflicted on December 28, police said. The girl died as she sat in

NIAGARA HORSESHOE FALLS CHANGED BY SLIDES; SENATE HOLDS UP PREVENTION WORK

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The famous horseshoe falls between Goat Island and the Canadian shore had a new aspect today because of rock slides during the week-end.

The 1,000 foot crest of the American falls before the slides was in an unbroken line, but there now is a rift in the line aboue 300 feet from Luna Island.

The U-shaped indentation in the brink created by the slide is estimated to be 150 to 200 feet deep and 150 feet in width.

Apparently the Cave of the Winds has not been affected, though the broken rock and stone may have obstructed the pathway leading to this scenic feature of the falls. Because of the prevalence of ice and snow, no attempt has been made to enter the cave. A fall of rock in the cave eight years ago injured several sightseers.

Dr. Reginald H. Pegrum, geology professor at the University of Buffalo, said that while erosion was the main cause of the slide, winter weather and the ice, causing cracks and scars in the rock surface, undoubtedly were contributing factors.

Remedial measures to minimize erosion, preserve the beauty of the falls and provide for a greater division of water for power purposes have been held up for two years because of the failure of the United States senate to ratify a treaty drawn up by the international board, composed of engineering representatives of the American and canadian governments, and signed by members of this board January 3, 1929. The plan, the estimated cost of which was $1,750,000, was ratified by the Canadian parliament May 20,1929. The protocol never was reported out of senate committee.

N. SUTTLE ROBERTS FIRST WITNESS TO BE CALLED MONDAY

VICE PRESIDENT OF STATE NATIONAL BANK BEFORE GRAND JURY

N. Suttle Roberts vice president of the State National Bank, close personal friend of I. N. Cerf, president, was the first witness to appear before the Navarro county grand jury Monday afternoon, according to announcement by Cleo Miller, county attorney.

Roberts is one of the men delivering the $15,000 to the kidnappers of young Cerf, according to statement by the elder Cerf recently. According to the published statement Roberts was met two miles south of Dallas by four men and the money was paid over in large denomination bills.

With the appearance of Roberts before the grand jury it is indicated the investigation of the kidnapping will be pushed by the county attorney's office.

The scheduled "going to the bottom of things," in the kidnapping of Robert Cerf, 24, son of I. N. Cerf, Corsicana banker, for ransom and the payment of $15,000 for his release early in December, 1930, Monday morning failed to materialize before the specially summoned January term grand jury of the Thirteenth Judicial District court and Cleo G. CALIFORNIA TAX CAN BE REPORTED PAID SEPARATELY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The supreme court today ruled that federal taxes on 1928 income from community property in California can be reported and paid separately by the husband and wife.

The court's ruling today was made in answering questions asked by the ninth circuit court of appeals.

In a previous decision the highest court held that in California, the wife, at that time, had only an expectant interest and not a vested right in community property, and that the husband must file a return on the entire income from such property.

Since then the state law has been amended.

The supreme court at this term held that under the community property laws of Arizona, Louisiana, Texas and Washington state separate income tax returns could be filed by husband and wife.

Levine Planes Sold for Rent Highest Bidder

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Airplanes and other property of Charles A. Levine, seized by a sheriff for rent due to Roosevelt Field, were sold today to the highest bidders.

An all-metal monoplane, "Uncle Sam," which Levine built at a cost of $25,000 a year ago for a projected flight around the world, was bid in by Roosevelt Field for $750.

"The Riad," which Levine built for use as a land plane, seaplane or Amphibian, sold for $1,000.

Other property, including tools and supplies brought about $50. Roosevelt Field claimed $5,108, or 14 months' hangar rent was due from Levine.

Sponsor and passenger on Chamberlain's flight from New York to Germany in 1927 Levine has been sought by police for two weeks in another connection. Assistant District Attorney Garrison in New York ordered his arrest because Levine failed to appear to explain possession of securities reported stolen.

Ritchie Inaugural Viewed as 1932 Bid

Inducted into office as Governor of Maryland for his fourth term, breaking all precedents of service in the state, Albert C. Ritchie devoted his inaugural to a discussion of national issues and, in the general opinion, sounded the keynote of his candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination in 1932.

LAW ENFORCEMENT REPORT DELIVERED TO HOOVER MONDAY

CHAIRMAN WICKERSHAM OF COMMISSION DELIVERS PROHIBITION REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The law enforcement commission's prohibition report was submitted to President Hoover today.

Chairman Wickersham arrived at the White house proper just before nine a. m. He carried the long-awaited document in a bulky envelope.

The president soon went to his offices, but whether to study the report was not revealed. He is expected to submit the commission's findings to congress without delay, possibly Tuesday or Wednesday.

At that time it will be available for publication.

The report of the commission as a whole has been described as largely factual, but embracing recommendations for improving conditions in connection with Volstead enforcement.

Word has been given that no recommendation for repeal or modification is included, in this main report, at least. Sources close to the commission said no effort is made to gloss over facts either favorable or unfavorable to the dry laws, however.

The report includes individual opinions from among the eleven commissioners. How many dissented from the majority report is expected to be made known only through publication of the documents.

From the commissioners themselves in recent weeks have come assertions that unanimity could not be hoped for.

Many Coyotes Killed in Drive On Padre Island

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Five hundred sportsmen from this section and the lower Rio Grande valley held a coyote drive yesterday on the southern end of Parde island. Dr. J. A. Hockaday of Brownsville, organizer of the hunt, reported that 26 coyotes were checked as killed and that many others, not checked, also fell before the sportsmen.

The drive proceeded on schedule and without accident. News reel cameramen took pictures of races between dogs and coyotes and the roping of coyotes by horsemen. It was planned to make the drive an annual affair.

BUSINESS MAN KILLS SELF.

RIVERTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—(AP)—F. S. Grovs, Jr., 49, Philadelphia business man and son of F. S. Graves former general manager of the Baltimore and Philadelphia Steamship company, founded by the family, committed suicide by shooting in his home here last night.

PLANNED TO PLACE BURDEN OF HIGHWAY BUILDING ON STATE

TWO RESOLUTIONS AND BILL CALLING FOR $200,000,000 BOND ISSUE IN SENATE

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The $200,000,000 statewide highway bond issue proposal hit the senate today in the form of two resolutions and one bill.

Resolutions drawn by Senators Walter Woodul of Houston and W. A. Williamson asked that the constitution be amended to allow the levying of taxes by the state for state highway purposes and to permit the extension of credit of the state. The proposal would also reimburse the counties and districts for money expended by them in building and maintaining state designated highways.

The bill which was introduced in connection with the resolutions would do away with county aid in highway building and lift burdens of road building from counties.

The resolution carried provisions for retiring $90,000,000 in bonded indebtedness in the counties and road districts. Of the remainder of the $110,000,000 for construction, not more than $20,000,000 could be spent in any one year.

Real property would never be taxed to pay off these bonds Senator Woodul said.

The state highway bond proposal was in the platform of Ross S. Sterling, who becomes governor tomorrow.

Such a proposal two years ago precipitated a long, hard fight, before being defeated by a few votes. Another intense battle was predicted for this year.

Legislation designed to head off the issue had been porjected. One resolution would take the state schools share of the state gasoline tax and turn it to the highway funds. A like amount for the schools would be obtained from a state income tax.

SEEK ABOLITION OF DIFFERENTIALS GALVESTON HEARING

GALVESTON, Jan 19.—(AP)—Railway and traffic men of Texas gathered here today for a joint meeting of the interstate commerce and Texas railway commissions at which abolition of differentials on intrastate shipments in Texas differential territory was to be considered. A petion for action was filed by the Texas Industrial Traffic league. The case is a partial reopening of the consolidated southwestern cases.

The traffic league was to hold a special meeting today to consider regulation of motor trucks.

O. D. Hudnall, chief rate clerk of the Texas commission, sat with Examiners W. J. Koebel and R. G. Taylor. A large volume of testimony in support of the traffic league contention that rate differentials in West Texas should be abolished was introduced.

Indications were the hearing would continue all week, since several other rate readjustments were to be considered.

Texarkana Man Is Held Under Three Additional Charges

TEXARKANA, Ark., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dan Dewberry, 38, was held under $250 bond on three charges of embezzlement and two alleging forgery when arraigned in court here today.

The charges were in addition to four indictments returned in 1927 when Dewberry went to California after becomin ginvolved in real estate transactions which Texarkana property owners claimed cost them several hundred thousand dollars.

Dewberry refused to make a statement and said he had not employed an attorney. Preliminary hearings were set for Wednesday.

FUND $25,000,000 FOR RED CROSS AID IS GIVEN APPROVAL

BELIEVED MEASURE WILL ALSO PASS HOUSE; HOOVER IS OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The senate today approved the $25,000,000 appropriation for Red Cross relief work. There was no record vote.

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, objected to reconsideration and the amendment stayed in the bill.

The proposal which, sponsored by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, was added to the interior department appropriation bill.

The vote came so quickly that administration leaders who intended to ask postponement of the proposal were caught napping.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, promptly asked the senate to reconsider the vote and then voted reconsideration.

Smoot said he knew the provision would pass if put to a record vote and he wanted the interior appropriation bill, to which it is attached, passed.

He said the measure provided $34,000,000 to be made available for public work immediately and this was the first money the western states would get under the relief program.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, had prepared to move that the Robinson amendment for $25,000,000 to be made the special order of business for Feb. 9. He drafted this proposal after a conference with President Hoover, who has complained that the senate proposal was interfering with Red Cross campaign for $10,000,000.

However, Reed with other administration leaders was not present when the sudden vote came.

Democratic Leader Robinson said he had no objection to reconsideration but in view of the fact his amendment was acted on after a quorum call, a roll call vote should have been taken today. McNary would not consent to fixing a time to vote, but after considerable discussion he left the matter for Smoot to determine as he was in charge of the bill.

House Republican leaders today had expressed the opinion that the fund for millions for the Red Cross would not meet substantial opposition in that branch.

Later, Reed entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the $25,000,000 amendment was adopted, but did not ask for its immediate consideration.

Reed's reconsideration motion held up final disposition of the amendment. It must be voted on, however, before the bill is passed.

Meanwhile, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, read to the senate a letter from Secretary Hurley offering to sell old clothes and blankets to charitable organizations for relief.

Thomas said charitable organizations could obtain a "vast amount" of this kind of equipment for a "nominal figure."

Hurley said the clothing would be sold with the understanding they would be dyed and given away, not resold.

Thomas also announced he had been authorized by the secretary of war to announce state governors could obtain field kitchens from army corps commanders. Thomas said many cities had food and men to serve it, but no way to cook it.

Senate leaders later agreed to vote Monday on the Reed Motion. The Pennsylvanian explained if reconsideration were allowed, he would move to defer consideration of the contest until Feb. 9 to permit the Red Cross to complete its campaign for $10,000,000. Leaders expect the motion to reconsider to be defeated, however.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Postponement of consideration of the $25,000,000 appropriation for Red Cross relief work for two or three weks, pending the Red Cross campaign for $10,000,000, was advocated today by Senator Reed after a conference with President Hoover.

The Pennsylvanian, stalart supporter of the president, at the same time indicated he favored the $25,000,000 federal appropriation proposed by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader.

Senate leaders believed there was little chance of deferring the $25,000,000 issue and house leaders hinted strongly there was every likelihood that the appropriation would be approved there, thus putting the issue up to President Hoover, who indicated in talks with administration leaders today that he was opposed to it.

There also was talk at the capital of making the $25,000,000 fund a loan to the Red Cross to be used if necessary. Whether this suggestion came from the president or from administration leaders seeking a compromise was not made clear, but it was evident that it was not acceptable to the forces back of the drive for the fund.

Senator Reed declined to comment on his white house visit. His proposal was known to be in accordance with the views of the president, hower.

Complaint was voiced yesterday by Red Cross officers that the senate controversy over a federal appropriation was hindering their campaign for $10,000,000 in subscriptions from the people.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The senate's own relief measure, the $25,000,000 appropriation to the Red Cross for feeding the destitute, was slated today for passage as an amendment to routine legislation.

A vote on the amendment was in prospect, and leaders for the administration conceded there was a scant score of names to be set down in opposition to the item sponsored by Democratic leaders and Republican insurgents. Several of the regular Republicans had lined up with them.

The complaint taken to the White House by officials of the Red Cross that the appropriation prospect was impeding their own $10,000,000 drive for public subscriptions left the senate unmoved. Leader Robinson of the Democrats put it down as an effort to embarrass passage of his proposal.

Robinson Scores Protest.

"It will be a poor excuse for those who can afford it not to contribute because the government also proposes to give," he observed.

Earlier the senate had heard that western communities felt unable to respond to the Red Cross appeal and take care also of local relief needs.

Seeing disposal for the time being of the relief issue, the senate projected its program further, planning to take up the disputed nomination of Eugene Meyer as chairman of the federal reserve board. And Senator McNary, assistant Republican leader, decided to ask also unanimous consent to ordering three night sessions weekly, beginning next week.

Houses Get Red Report.

The house departed for a while from debate of appropriations to receive the report of the special Communist investigating committee, headed by Representative Fish, Republican, New York.

It was to receive also a statement by Chairman Legge of the farm board, endorsing a temporary embargo on wheat, feed grains and butter as a measure of farm protection. Such a proposal has been introduced by Representative Burtness, Republican, North Dakota.

Yesterday the senate ordered an investigation of bread and sugar prices. Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, was selected chairman of the investigating group. He plans to start Monday to ascertain why the dive taken by wheat and flour prices has not been reflecd in retail bread prices, which have remained unchanged. Baking combines will be studied.

The Capper group may spread its questioning to other foodstuffs, such as meat. The Kansan said there was widespread complaining concerning failure of food prices to come down in relation to the diminished returns paid the farmer.

Building Bill Introduced.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—An administration proposal for an additional $100,000,000 public building program was introduced today in the house by Chairman Elliott, of the public buildings committee.

The measure was introduced at request of the treasury. In addition, it would increase the annual outlay for public buildings from $50,000,000 to $65,000,000 and would abolish the restriction providing that not in excess of $10,000,000 could be expended for federal buildings in any one state.

Hurley Opposes Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A plan to relieve unemployment by organizing a special army reserve of 250,000 men was opposed today by Secretary Hurley.

In a letter to the house military committee, he reported adversely on the Celler bill to enlist a quarter million men for one year as an emergency measure.

"The cost of the bill is estimated at $226,805,000, a very large amount, which if available, could be used to secure lasting beneficial effects as well as for the relief of a greater number of unemployed," Hurley said.

Demand Discharge Committee Heard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A demand that the ways and means committee be discharged from consideration of bills to authorize cash payment of World War veterans adjusted compensation certificates was made in the house today by Representative Patman. No action was taken immediately.

The Texas democrat said the committee had failed to consider various proposals for cashing the certificates sponsored by a number of members. The present cash value of the certificates, he said, is $3,400,000,000.

THREE PLANS FOR RELIEF INDEPENDENT OIL MEN ANNOUNCED

TARIFF ON IMPORTS, LIMITATION OF IMPORTS AND EXCLUSION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Assistance of members of the senate was sought today by independent oil producers in their warfare against the large petroleum corporations.

Senator Nye, independent republican, North Dakota, was asked to call for an investigation of charges the big companies were combining to fix prices and drive the small producers out of business.

Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, received a protest against the purchase of imported oil by the shipping board, and called upon the board of a copy of its contract with the Gulf Oil company.

J. Edward Jones, vice-president of the Independent Petrolcum association, called on Nye. The senator was ready to call the attention of the senate to the oil situation later in the day and had prepared a resoluion of investigation for introduction, should he decide an inquiry was desirable.

Thomas was told by the Mid-Continent Royalty Owners' association of Tulsa, Okla., that the Gulf company was importing Venezuelan petroleum and selling it to the shipping board for the merchant fleet corporation.

The board produced its contract with the Gulf company, calling for monthly delivery of more than a million barrels of fuel oil at nine American seaports.

Nye said he thought an investigation ought to be made but hoped "someone else would introduce a resolution calling for it."

He added he would confer with Senator Thomas during the day and urge that the latter introduce a resolution requesting an investigation by a congressional committee.

Orville Bullington, of Wichita Falls, today was elected chairman of the oil conference's executive committee.

Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board, declined to comment on the complaint to Senator Thomas.

Vice Chairman Plummer said all oil purchased by the board was through public bidding.

Officials of the purchasing department said crude oil of the kind imported from Venezuela was not used in vessels operated by the board.

William R. Gavanaugh, who talked with Thomas for the mid-continent organization, submitted a letter from Joseph Tausek (Allerton House) of New York City, whom he identified as a former employe of the Gulf company.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A three-fold crusade to obtain relief from congress for the independent oil producers was to be launched today in a determined fight for a tariff or partial embargo.

While delegates to the governors' oil relief conference were scattering to their homes in 13 states, an executive committee selected to pick up the weapons chosen by the session prepared to swing into action. The committee, named by Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, Oklahoma, president of the Independent Petroleum association and chairman of the meeting, planed to perfect its organization, then open its campaign upon capitol hill.

The campaign proper in congress will center upon three sallents, the tariff, limitation of imports of crude oil, and exclusion of foreign-origin refined petroleum.

The ultimate goal of the independent producers is a tariff. In the closing hours of the conference yesterday, however, the general opinion gained ground that the present session was too short for a fight over setting up schedules on petroleum.

Consequently, the plan of attack was given a dual head. The partial embargo was decided upon as an alternative and conference oficials and delegates joined in terming this method most likely of immediate success.

Be Presented Congress

A formal petition, presenting the dual appeal, was to be submitted to the house and the senate. A third drive was to be launched in a petition addressed to 20 states' congressional delegation calling upon them to make every effort to obtain "relief from foreign competition" at this session.

This petition asked for "an organization" of the next house "and in particular a speaker and ways and means committee which will give the American oil industry an immediate and fair hearing on tariff protection or some other regulation and restriction on the importation of foreign crude oil and its refined products."

A second committee was scheduled to call upon President Hoover soon to lay before him the producers' appeal.

J. Edward Jones, vice president and director of the Independent Petroleum association and member of the executive committee today sought the assistance of Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, to obtain an investigation of charges of price fixing by big oil companies.

Senator Nye Favorable

He said Nye was in favor of the investigation and expected to call for one in a speech later in the day, the inquiry to be made by a senate committee or by the federal trade commission.

In a letter to Nye, Jones charged the larger corporations set prices by agreement, that price fixing tactics and manipulation of prices were decided upon by the big companies and that each acted within a few hours of each other.

He said that the big companies controlled the wells, pipe lines, refineries and distribution systems and "more power is enjoyed by the oil monopoly than any other industry."

He named the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the Standard of New Jersey, other standard companies and subsidiaries, the Gulf Oil and Refining company, and other corporations in his charges.

FERTILITY OF SOIL MUST BE CONSERVED AS AN AID TO THE FUTURE GENERATIONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of a daily series of four articles on soil and rainfall conservation, prepared with the co-operation of M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer at Texas A. and M. College, and A. K. Short, conservation and terracing agent of the Federal Land Bank of Houston.)

By CHARLES E. SIMMONS,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Present day Texas farmers should be ever mindful of coming generations and should pay their debts to posterity by preserving as far as possible the fertility of the soil, according to T. O. Walton, president of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college. Discounting the debt to future tillers of the soil, Dr. Walton said farmers of thie era owed it to themselves to keep their lands in a condition where it could be tilled profitably.

Dr. Walton is an ardent advocate of the plan to preserve Texas farm lands by teracing to prevent erosion and loss of plant food.

Texans should be looking to conservation of the soil now under cultivation rather than tussling with the problem of renewing fertility after the land has been depleted of plant foods, Dr. Walton said that Texas, for the most part, still was in possession of its soil fertility and that the problem was to conserve it. He pointed out that in most sections of the state, the rainfall was sufficient to produce an annual crop provided the precipitation was conserved and turned to crop building instead of being permitted to run pell-mell off hillsides and slopes, carrying with it millions of pounds of plant food and leaving a barren soil.

Experiments at stations of the agricultural school have conclusively proved that soil fertility and available water influence both the cost of production and the quality of the products, Dr. Walton said. Experiments have showed approximately 25 per cent of the annual rainfall is lost from the land in the form of "run-off" water, carrying with it enormous quantites of soil, in some instances as high as 40 tons per acre per year.

The experiments also have proved these losses may be prevented through a system of terracing farm lands to prevent washing and gullying.

Agricultural leaders throughout the United States have inaugurated programs to acquaint farmers with the need of conservation of soil and rainfall. M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer at Texas A. and M., said one of the most difficult problems to surmount was to make the farmer realize the economic value of the program. Consistent plugging away to this end, however, has shown results, there being less than 1,000,000 acres of land terraced before 1920 while since that time the total has grown to approximately 4,000,000 acres. Approximately 700,000 acres were terraced in 1929 alone, he said.

Bentley said Runnels, Jones, Smith and Bowie counties were showing the most progress along this line with farmers in Howard, Martin, Midland, Terry, Hockley, Lamb and Deaf Smith counties rapidly taking hold of the movement. Excellent growth of terracing work in central Texas, especially in Limestone and Falls counties, was commended by Bentley.

In the back land regions, however, Bentley said, the work was progressing more slowly and this section was lagging behind the rest of the state, although terracing was badly needed due to the generally sloping terrain.

Data compiled by the Agricultural and Mechanical college disclosed that erosion not only was of prime importance to agriculture, but also to other lines of endeavor. Of the total loss incurred annually in the United States $200,000,000 may be charged directly to the farmers. The loss to farmers, Bentley said, is not only in plant food material but the actual soil material itself. The latter condition was described by the agricultural engineer as by far the most important, since plant foods can be restored by fertilizers and the growing and use of legumes, but when the soil has washed away it must be replaced with other soil and the cost of this operation is prohibitive.

According to Bentley, erosion is reducing both the size and the speed of the stream. In a terraced field, both these ends are attained, Bentley stated.

Ther is only a small portion of the land under cultivation in Texas that would not be benefitted by terracing, Bentley said. Terracing could be done profitably on a large portion of pasture lands, he added. Good results have been obtained on land having a slope as much as eight feet per 100 feet. Bentley advised that land steeper than this should be left in pasture or timber.

Use of dams and spillways without terracing was condemned by Bentley as a waste of money. With terraces, however, they unually pay satisfactory interest on the investment, he said.

As an instance of the effectiveness of terracing, Bentley cited the case of Wade Davis of Aspermount. Davis' farm was drenched with a fall of 7.82 inches in 30 hours. The slope was nine feet per 100 feet yet the terraces did not break and permit a free flow of the water.

I. N. Wilkerson's farm in Taylor county, with terraces 2,700 feet long, held 2.25 inches of rain that fell in 35 minutes. In Knox county, L. P. Jones terraced 900 acres at an average cost of 63 cents per acre, and both saved many dollars and plenty of grief by having their land terraced, Bentley said.

CLAUDE TEER PAYS TRIBUTE TO PASSING GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Tribute to a passing governor was paid by one who has had all the favors he expects from the executive.

Claude Teer, chairman of the state board of control, who served eight years in the legislature prior to his appointment by Governor Dan Moody, declared Moody's messages to the legislature contained more of the science of government than those of any other governor.

Blindness is only a partial handicap to Rep. Olen R. Van Zandt, Grayson county. He demonstrated his ability to remember voices, as other men remember faces, during the "reunions" which marked the gathering of the 42nd legislature.

A voice, shouting to him clear across the rotunda of the capitol, was recognized and answered, and Van Zandt invariably called the names of those who advanced to shake his hand.

Mrs. Van Zandt, his constant companion, is his "eyes."

Gorden M. Burns of Huntsville, elected to the legislature on a "squirrel bill," plans to do his utmost to put that bill through the legislature.

Burns, son of the district attorney of Huntsville, wants to give sportsmen of his district an additional three months in which to snipe the nut nibblers—in May, June and July, and October, November and December.

Recalling with pride his authorship of the measures creating the state auditor's department, Rep. Coke Stevenson will resist to the utmost any attempts to stringhalt the deparment.

Stevenson offered the bill as a substitute for the proposed civil service act, declaring it had all the merits of civil service without the defects.

Only three amendments were placed on the bill in its travel through legislative channels—one giving the governor power to make the appointment; two, requiring the auditor to be a certified public accountant; and third, adding the words "efficiency expert" to the auditor's title. Stevenson has never been fully won over to the merits of any one of the amendments—especially the last one.

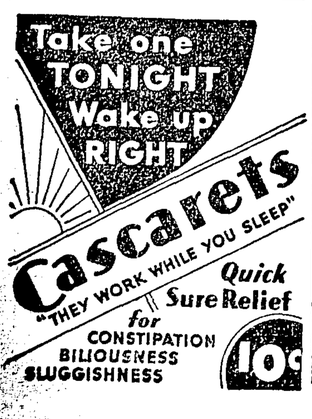

There would be a nice "young-old" fight in the legislature if the youngsters wanted to take advantage of their numerical strength. There were 79 new members elected, according to the last count. Some of these, however, served in previous sessions, as for instance, Lee Satterwhite, of Odessa.

Three of the five ladies elected are serving their first terms. Miss Margie Neal, the only woman senator, was the logical choice for chairman of the education committee, due to her long interest in affairs. Mrs. Helen B. Moore of Texas City won a name for herself in her interest in charitable institutions.

Mrs. N. R. Strong, one time postmistress and school teacher, but who now prefers to list herself as a farm woman, succeeded her late husband in the house. Mrs. Sarah Hughes of Dallas, a practicing attorney, comes to the legislature with the recommendation of her husband and law partner. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree of Bryan adds to her distinction as a member of the legislature, the distinction of being a member of The Associated Press. The latter three are the new members.

Awake Half the Night Weak and in Pain

"NIGHT after night I could not sleep," writes Mrs. Mary J. Roberts, 117 West Franklin St., Raleigh, N. C. "I would lie awake half the night. I was dizzy and weak, suffered frequently with pains in my side and small part of my back.

"When I was a girl, my mother gave me Cardui, and it did me so much good, I thought I would try it again. I took five bottles, and I feel like a new person.

"I think it is fine. I would advise every woman who is weak to try Cardui, for it has certainly put me on my feet."

RULE CHANGES IN PROSPECT AS NEW CONGRESS MEETS

ADMINISTRATION WILL HAVE MORE DIFFICULT TIME CONTROLLING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Stringent rules of the house of representatives, which for years have made the course of administration-supported legislation a comparatively smooth one, appear in for some loosening.

The subject is engrossing many members now although the action will come, if it does, with the organization of the next house, which still is shrouded in doubt. Some Democrats, restive under the iron control of legislation by the Republican leadership, have come out in the open with denunciations of the present system. Republicans of insurgent tendencies have been flirting with threatened bolts from the party fold unless consideration of their independent proposals is made easier.

Steersman See Changes.

The Republican steersman, close-mouthed when speaking for publication, have gone so far as to admit in private that the complexion of the next house will force some changes in the rules. Their party will have but 218 seats, the Democrats four less because of two vacancies, and the Farmer-Labor party will have a single spokesman.

Even after one of the other party succeeds in organizing the next house, control as now held by the Republicans will be non-existent. There are almost always defections from party lines at voting time, and the so-called 'workable majority" which in the present house normally insures Republican success, will not be available to either side to offset this switching.

The central point of attack for spokesmen of rule changes, notably Representative Crisp, Democrat, Georgia, is what they call the Republican "triumvirate," composed of Speaker Longworth, Majority Leader Tilson, and Chairman Snell of the rules committee.

Three Changes In Prospect.

Crisp has demanded three changes. The first to permit a majority of any committee to consider legislation referred to it over objections of the chairman. He frequently now is successful in pocketing a disliked bill. The second, to give 100 members power to take legislation out of the hands of a committee instead of the present 218, or a majority of the membership. The third, to give the house routine opportunity to consider discharging conferees appointed to deal with senate amendments, instead of the present power which is limited to giving them instructions.

Discharging conferees, Crisp says, cannot be accomplished unless the "triumvirate" decides to bring in a special rule. His demand for these changes has been based on the contention that present procedure prevented the house from expressing itself on much of the legislation enacted.

Both Parties Liable.

The Republican leaders' contention has been that while their party had control of the house it held responsibility for all legislation it passed. With the division in the next house, some of them hold, both parties will be accountable for the house's deeds.

Democratic criticism has not passed unchalenged, however, for to Crisp's demand for liberalization Chairman Snell retorted that no effort to liberalize rules had been made by the Georigan as long as his own party was in power.

FORTSON GROCERY COMPANY TO REBUILD BURNED BUILDING

A decision to rebuild immediately and continue in the wholesale grocery business was reached at the annual meeting of the stockholders and directors of the Fortson Grocery company Friday afternoon, and company officials announced Saturday morning that they expected to do business in their rebuilt quarters within forty-five days.

The board of directors reelected Friday includes John T. Fortson, S. B. McDaniel, J. B. Fortson, J. N. Garitty, A. E. Haslam, and H. G. Gribble. The list of officers comprises, John T. Fortson, president; S. B. McDaniel, vice-president and general manager; J. B. Fortson, vice-president; J. N. Garitty, treasurer.

Mr. McDaniel said Saturday that arrangements had been made to open temporary quarters in the freight depot of the Burlington-Rock Island railroad, and that several carloads of merchandise were now en route, and that some six or seven carloads had been received since the first last Sunday morning.

Representatives of a salvage company are now engaged in clearing away the debris out of the damaged building, and as soon as their operations are complete, work will be started with a large crew in replacing the damaged parts of the structure and making it ready for business again.

The structure covers a plot 140x100 feet, and considerable repairs will be made to the walls and foundation; the fire wall or parapet wall will be replaced, a new roof and floor constructed, and the entire building refinished, and a new front erected. Repairs will probably run between $10,000 and $15,000.

Insurance settlements have been made and only salvaging operations are preventing the contractors from starting work immediately. It is expected that the work will be completed and the building ready for use in about six weeks.

Fortson Grocery company is capitalized for $150,000 and has been engaged in the wholesale business in Corsicana for many years, employing at present nineteen men.

With new supplies arriving daily, the company expects to be able to fill any kind of an order in a week's time. Temporary offices are now located at 106 North Commerce street.

Words in Praise of Ada Kate O'Neal by Personal Friend

When the sad news flashed over the wires on Friday morning last, that the beautiful soul of Ada Kate O'Neal had winged its flight to the wonderful world beyond, it came with a painful shock, and there was universal sorrow at her passing—heart-rending grief for her family and friends of whom there are legion.

God in his wonderful garden has plucked this rosebud because he needed such a beautiful blossow, in his realms of beauty and glory.

We all weave our own life patterns and Ada Kate brought the light of understanding and love, and a wonderful personality, not vouchsafed to many of us, to bear on the very day problems of existence—meeting the world afresh each day with a smile all her own.

Sorrow takes its toll with all of us, seemingly plucking the stronger characters in our midst, but in her few years of life, she had been enabled to finish her alloted task, and earned the right en enter thus early upon her everlasting rest.

Her optimistic outlook on life would preclude sorrow, on our part, at her passing, because she dwells in the house of the Lord, forever, for we know He called unto Himself one He loved.

We do not pretend to understand but we certainly do not question His rulings and can only stand by as true friends to mitigate, in as far as possible, the lonely hearts off her home circle.

Certainly there remains the fact that she leaves behind her a peculiarly blessed remembrance in the heart of the dear mother and father whose pride and idol she was.

To them remain sweet memories and amid the pain of their grief is given the balm of realizing that their daughter never failed to rise to the measure of their fondest expectations, and that there was never an hour marred by the shadow of parental doubt or fear, or anxiety.

We are but "birds of passage" here below and so we thing of her "In the Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

When they write "finis," for you and for me, may we, too, not falter in God's presence.

One Who Loved Her.

Popular Business Girl's Funeral Is Largely Attended

Despite the terrible weather Saturday morning, a large number of Corsicana friends motored to Emhouse to attend the funeral of Miss Ada Kate O'Neal, who lost her life Friday morning when a gas explosion set fire to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wilson, where she had an apartment. Those going from here were Rev. P. Martin Baker, who conducted the services; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson's father, Mr. J. M. Douglas; Mr. J. B. Mikell, Miss Kathline Mikell and Mrs. Fred Wood; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rittersbacher, Mr. Edgar Rittersbacher, Mrs. A. H. Willie, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Newman, Judge and Mrs. R. R. Owen, Mrs. Edgar Eliot, Lowell Estes, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bristow Misses Marguerite Garitty, Mary Harris, Nancy Owen and Mary Alice Graves.

LAUGHS SELF TO DEATH

FORT WORTH, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Joe Knipp, 70, carpenter, burst into hearty laughter yesterday upon hearing a humorous quip, while visiting friends here. He fell dead, a victim of heart attack. His widow and two daughters, all of Lubbock, survive.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. BELLE CALVERT

"Grandmother" was 83 years, 4 months and 16 days old when she passed to the great beyond, Nov. 3, 1930. She was laid to rest beside her husband in the White Church cemetery at Blooming Grove, Nov. 4. "Grandmother" Calvert and family came to Texas from Tennessee in 1887 and lived near Blooming Grove until 10 years ago when she moved near Kerens.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Laura Ragan, Kerens; one brother, T. O. Griffis, Fort Worth; five children, Vinnie and Wiley Calvert, Kerens; Mrs. J. E. Thomason, Powell; Mrs. W. F. Wodkins, Scurry; Mrs. R. T. Lonon, Powell and eleven grandchildren and seven great grandchildren and other relatives ad friends.

Weep not dear children,
As ones who have no hope.
Just think she is an angel
And waiting for your coming in a better land.

Some day we will meet our mother
The time may not be long
Till we shall meet together
In the land of song and joy.

DEACONS ORDAINED AT FIRST BAPTIST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Eight newly-elected deacons of the First Baptist church were ordained in a service held at the church Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The names of these men are John B. Davis, E. C. Lee, Franklin Seale, Gilbert Roxburgh, Russell Purifoy, W. W. Harris, Percy D. Williams, and Warren Hicks.

The Council which examined the candidates were composed of Rev. J. Howard Williams, Rev. Walter E. Kimbrought, Rev. T. A. Bohannon, Rev. J. J. Horn, and Rev. E. L. Liddell, and also all the ordained deacons present in the service. The questions for the examination were asked by Rev. Horn, with Rev. Williams serving as chairman of the council. Rev. Liddell led in the ordination prayer and Rev. Bohannon in the closing prayer.

The ordination sermon, or "charge" was delivered by Rev. Walter E. Kimbrough of Seninary Hill, Texas. He presented a forceful and thoughtful commentary on the office of deacon and its responsibilities, stating that it is not an honorary but a practical position. After examination, the Council reported to the church a recommendation that all the candidates be accepted, which report was adopted.

The ordination of the new deacons was completed with the symbolic "laying of hands" on the heads of the kneeling candidates by the members of the Council. The service was declared by many present to be one of the most impressive occasions in the life of the church.

Attendance Increased.

Considerable increase in attendance on the preaching and teaching services of the First Baptist church was noted yesterday. Pastor J. Howard Williams preached Sunday morning to a congregation which filled the main auditorium, on the subject, "The Gain of Godliness." He dealt with the scripture text as found in I Timothy 6:6, "Godliness with contentment is great gain." Godliness, the pastor stated, is "well-directed reverence," active, duty-doing reverence, or love, awe, and respect for God expressed in worshipful conduct.

The religion of Christ he described as "a program of life, based on beliefs and inspired by emotions. "Godliness and contentment, the latter defined as independence of outward circumstances, were linked together in the discussion. "Gain" was said to be more strictly interpreted as "the source or fountain of gain," indicating unfailing supply.

The mixed chorus choir sang a hymn-anthem in the morning worship, and in the evening a solo was rendered by Glen Booher, baritone. The Sunday school showde an attendance of 676 as compared with 450 last Sunday and 540 one year ago. The Training Service attendance was 188. The Senior Unions, three in number, inaugurated a departmental assembly period, which will be held each Sunday evening at 6:15 in the Alathean classroom.

Rev. Walter E. Kimbrough, of Seminary Hill, Texas, occupied the pulpit for the evening service and delivered a strong evangelistic sermon. He discussed the questionings of ohn the Baptist which arose in his mind concerning Christ when he was a prisoner in the Herodian dungeon. Mr. Kimbrough described John as an "honest doubter" whose faith triumphed over his doubts.

Aged Resident of Hubbard Community Buried Tuesday

HUBBARD, Jan. 17.—G. T. Danford, 82, native of Alabama, but resident of Texas 54 years, died in the Wafer community Monday and the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon with interment in the Dover cemetery. He had resided in the Hubbard community for 20 years.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. T. R. Shaw, Fort Worth; J. R. Danford, Fort Worth; T. S. Danford and Mrs. Ann Statham, both of Hubbard; one brother, W. L. Danford, Grimes county; 24 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

INVESTIGATORS TO INSPECT CITY SOON LOCATE FIRE RISKS

MEETING HELD FRIDAY MORNING LARGELY ATTENDED BY CITIZENS

At the request of Corsicana city officials, insurance agents, and business men, a group of special agents in the roles of trained investigators will make a thorough inspection of this city within the near future to locate all possible fire hazards and risks, and if possible eradicate the abnormal condition that exists in Corsicana at this time in regard to fire losses.

This was briefly the result of a meeting of the Corsicana Insurance Exchange at which a number of representative citizens, and state and general agents of several insurance companies were present.

Edward M. Polk, president of the Texas Insurance Agents' Association, presided at the meeting and after briefly pointing out that more than a quarter of a million dollars in fire losses had occurred in Corsicana during the past few weeks, inaugurated a discussion of means and methods of curtailing these losses. He suggested a renewed fire prevention campaign, the reporting of fires more promptly so that the fire department might curtail the losses as far as possible, and the determining if sufficient apparatus was available.

English is Speakekr.

S. W. English, head of the Texas inspection bureau of the state fire insurance commission, declared that prevention was the principal idea in the minds of everyone. He also declared that he knew that Corsicana had a good fire department, capably manned aond with good equipment. He pointed out that the insurance commission along with the United States chamber of commerce had worked out a prevention campaign that called for the establishment of a fire prevention committee composed of business men and civic leaders. He declared that the efforts of the present committee of the chamber of commerce of Corsicana were excellent and complimented them highly, but asserted that this work should not be unloaded on a single group but was a matter for the consideration of every citizen. People should be glad to assist in the work because they are paying the premiums and footing the bills.

H. B. Bomar, president of the insurance exchange, reported that good work was being done in disseminating fire prevention information in the public schools, through the ready assistance and co-operation of the superintendent and faculty.

R. A. Caldwell, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the chamber of commerce, stated that he had shown some of the agents the files of newspaper publicity which showed some of the work done by the committee, and also paid tribute to the co-operation of Corsicana's newspaper in the work. The principal task of the committee he declared was to keep the people interested in fire prevention. He replied in the negative when asked if the local agents assisted the fire marshall in making the first investigation of fire losses.

Department Well Equipped.

W. P. Brown, police and fire commissioner of the city of Corsicana, at first took issue with the statement that the city had suffered fire losses of a quarter of a million, when the insured losses totalled only about one hundred thousand dollars, but later admitted that the first figure might cover the actual loss. Discussing the two recent major conflagrations, he stated that the fire department had no alibis to offer. He asserted that the city had sufficient equipment for its size, and was perhaps better equipped than many towns of similar size; admitting that perhaps in major fires that the department was undermanned and was forced to rely on volunteer assistance.

He urged the local and special agents to investigate more closely the moral risks involved in insurance. He related inability to secure convictions in arson cases without an eye witness. The commissioner stated that he had always contended for a year round program of prevention.

Chairman Polk declared that the insurance exchange had helped considerably in improving the moral risks, but that there was still room for improvement. He stated that the fire marshall made regular inspections of hazards and that the agents and committees depended on his activity extensively.

M. G. Jarreau suggested that it might be of value to the fire officials if they would familiarize themselves with the construction of various buildings, particularly those in the business section.

Urge Law Observance.

R. L. Hamilton declared that the people of Corsicana must realize the fire hazards in existence and take adequate steps to eliminate them. Hundreds of people, he asserted, violated the laws concerning gas connections in their homes and that continued fire losses from this source were condoned as soon as they occurred. The only thing that will keep down losses is a general and continued interest on the part of the people, Mr. Hamilton asserted and that the general public at this time is apathetic to everything except amusements.

Mr. Hamilton then placed a large part of the blame for poor moral risks on the insurance companies because they pay too little attention to the type of men that they select as their agents. One of the visitors attempted to defend the companies by blaming citizens for patronizing such agents.

Mr. English presented figures to prove that citizens who were suffering a maximum 15 per cent penalty, were paying 35 per cent more for their insurance than they should be paying, if they enjoyed the maximum credit of 15 per cent.

Inspections Suggested.

Other agents suggested that inspections should be made of all electric wiring, not in special places but of a general nature, but the ensuing discussion brought out the fact that it was not particularly the cause of an unusual number of losses but that this cause was blamed many times when the real origin was unknown. The practice of placing pennies and other pieces of metal behind blown fuses in switch panels also came in for heavy censure. Gas vent pipe that extended only to attics were also attacked.

Sydney Marks asserted that the business men were disturbed about conditions because they were paying the bills. He complimented the exchange for the good work that it had done. He then suggested an extended program of education, publicity and extensive inspections.

R. C. McConnell declared that the companies were not so alarmed at the two major losses that have occurred, but by the volume of smaller losses that occurred last year. George M. Easley reported that Waco was securing good results by an intensive campaign that had broken up an arson ring.

Schools Will Cooperate

Superintendent H. D. Fillers declared that the Corsicana public schools were glad to cooperate where possible; he said that the children were prone to criticise the fire department which was very likely the reflection of public opinion. He saw a need for frequent inspections to point out unknown fire hazards, and offered the cooperation of the schools.

He also made a plea for more definite information to be incorporated in the course presented in the schools, pointing out that types of fire hazards, prevalence of hazards in certain zones, comparative figures on losses and other information of a similar nature could be used to advantage.

He also mentioned a comparison of the tax renditions of some properties and the amount of insurance carried, which was greeted by laughs and knowing grins.

Following up Mr. Fillers' mention of the subject, Finance Commissioner G. L Tatum who is also a member of the municipal board of equalization, stated that some firms carried double the amount of insurance than the amount of their sworn inventories. He declared that almost every citizen was a "tax dodger" but that he thought the companies should take some action in preventing such over insurance.

Gabe Goldberg defended the action of the various agents, and stated that many of them declined to take risks, and pointed out that the insurance exchange was aiding in his work.

In reply to a question asked by Sydney Marks, R. C. McConnell replied that the companies regarded Corsicana as having an abnormal condition with regard to fire losses, and placed in in the same class with several other towns who have been having a series of fires.

City Wide Inspection

It was suggested that the companies send their special agents into Corsicana as trained investigators and to make a city-wide inspection reporting their findings to the local agents for proper action; the agents to be sent at one time, and district the city for inspection.

Mr. Marks then offered as a motion and it was carried that such a suggestion be made to the companies, and that every local agency be incorporated in the movement for the benefit of the city; the representatives of the several companies present agreed to this suggestion, and stated that a date would be arranged.

Presenting figures from the records of the fire insurance department at Austin, Mr. English stated that in 1919 with badly crowded housing conditions the dwelling loss ratio to the premiums paid was twenty per cent, while for thirty years previous it had been between seventy and seventy-five per cent; in 1920 it was twenty-eight per cent, and in 1921 jumped to seventy-four per cent where it has remained since that year. Mr. English declared that it proved that when the people did not want fire losses they did not have them.

Meeting Largely Attended

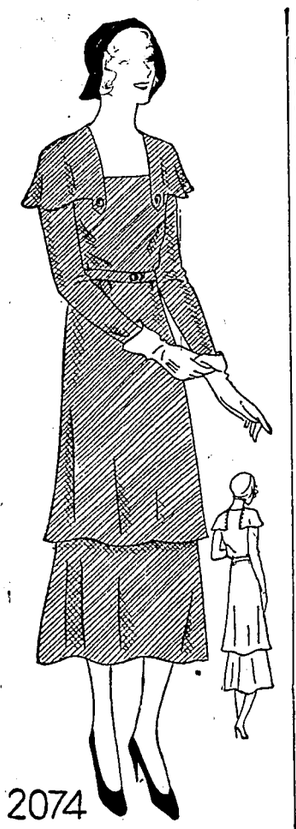

Among the special and general agents present were George M. Easley, R. C. McConnell, Joe Smith and M. G. Jarreau, all of Dallas, and S. W. English, state official.

Among the Corsicana citizens present were: E. M. Polk, Rev. H. J. Ellis, G. L. Tatum, H. B. Bomar, F. C. Paul, R. A. Caldwell, W. P. Brown, Sydney Marks, R. L. Hamilton, John C. Hughes, Mrs. Frances Cushman, Mrs. John H. Bryant, Miss Hazel Darling, C. T. Banister, Clyde Foster, Ted B. Ferguson, R. L. Calkins, H. D. Fillers, F. A. Pierce, C. A. Middleton, George E. Jester, J. PATTERN 2074

The Corsicana Daily Sun 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

There are many delightful versions of the tunic dress, some tailored and some decidedly feminine as the model sketched today. The soft, flattering shoulder capelets are the essence of femininity. The tunic skirt and the under skirt are moderately flared to achieve just the right degree of chic. The frock is belted, and worn slightly bloused.

Pattern 2074 may be made of silk or wool for equally smart effect. We suggest canton crepe, satin, marocain, wool crepe, wool georgette or one of the many novelty rayons so interesting this season. A plain color, a mixture or a print may be used successfully.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 1-2 yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

JUDGE TAKES HAND IN TRIAL OF FORMER WOMAN SECRETARY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Superior Judge William Doran warned against "mudslinging" today in the trial of Daisy DeVoe on charges of grand theft from her former employer, Clara Bow, of the films.

Judge Doran interrupted Nathan Freedman, defense counsel, at the outset of his cross questioning of Miss DeVoe, slated to continue her revelations of intimate details of Miss Bow's life.

"The purpose of the trial is to ascertain the truth as speedily and expeditiously as possible," he said. "The defendant in this case in charged with grand theft, and has pleaded not guilty. The issue here is clear cut. The question is: 'Did she steal thiu money?' I have in mind that this issue should not be met by generalities and indirections, but by specific proofs."

The evidence introduced in the defense, he said, should have some definite probative value.

"Reading the accounts of this trial in the newspapers," he added, "the public might well be in doubt as to who is on trial."

Nathan Freedman, defense counsel, promised cooperation in the elimination of "mud slinging" saying it was distasteful to him also, and continued his questioning.

A watch said to have been given by Daisy to her mother, was one of the items of the indictment, was purchased at Clara's suggestion, Daisy said. Under questioning Miss De Voe said Clara told her to buy the watch after she, Daisy, told her she could not afford a birthday present for her mother.

Concerning a check for $526.75, which the defendant is charged with having drawn on Miss Bow in favor of a motor company, in payment of the balance due on her own car, Miss De Voe said the sum was taken at Clara's suggestion "to avoid payment of interest on the balance."

"Miss Bow wanted me to get a more expensive car than I had, and it was her idea that I get the new one in the first place," she testified.

A beige fur coat costing $825 and dresses costing $1,262.50, were brought into testimony by Freedman's interrogation.

Miss De Voe admitted she had bought the fur coat and had written a check for it, but at Clara's request, she said.

"I took it to Clara's house but Mr. Rex Bell wouldn't let me in," she told the court.

Promise of More Scandal is Made

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Daisy De Voe's promise of more lurid pictures of off-stage life in Hollywood and of affairs in the home of Clara Bow, whetted interest of film fans today in her trial on charges of stealing $15,300 from the red-haired actress.

The big show was expected to be without its headliner again for the film "It" girl who once employed Daisy as secretary-confidante is nursing a bad cold and a case of nerves.

Miss De Voe was expected to resume the stand in her own defense and carry out, as far as the limitations of testimony taking would permit, her avowed intention of "telling plenty" on Clara.

Defense counsel, Nathan Freedman, expected to conclude Daisy's testimony within three or four hours, after which, he said, a score of witnesses would be called to bolster up her case.

While she is specifically charged with theft of $15,300 from her former employer, Daisy is purported to have confessed to the misappropriation of almost $35,000 from the film actress. She also is said to have admitted attempting to extort $125,000 from Miss Bow on pain of disclosure of the contents of intimately and affectionately worded telegrams and letters from Clara's admirers.

Louisiana Hotel Guests Routed By Fire Sunday Night

PLAQUEMINE, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Guests of the New Central Hotel escaped last night by sliding down bed sheets hung from windows, when fire destroyed the hotel and three business establishments located on its ground floor.

The fire was not discovered until flames were billowing through halls and down stairways.

The New Central was the only hotel in Plaquemine.

Clark Case Before Supreme Court Soon

Four of Present Justices Passed On Same Law

By SAM BLEDSOE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Whispering stops abruptly in a semi-circular room almost under the Capitol dome. The audience rises.

A voice begins: "Oyez, oyez, the Honorable, the Chief Justice and ——" The Supreme court is in session, and before this body is to come the decision of Judge William Clark of New Jersey holding the Eighteenth Amendment unconstitutional.

Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice, sits in the center of the bar overlooking the spectators. He is a big man and his fan-shaped beard is white. It is a bold lawyer who does not regard him with awe. He looks like a chief justice.

If his honors were medals—and he has a collection of them, too—they would weigh him down. He is a New Yorker, was governor of the state for two terms; has been associate justice of the court over which he presides; was the republican presidential candidate in 1916; Coolidge's secretary of state; judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice and named chief justice in 1930 to succeed William Howard Taft.

At the right of the chief justice sits Oliver Wendell Holmes. Ninety years have stooped his body but his head with its abundant snowy hair is magnificent, his mind quick and keen.

His father was Oliver Wendell Holmes of Boston, wit, author, aristocrat and physician. The son is wit, author, aristocrat and jurist.

They call him "the great liberal" and his dissenting opinions have become legal classics. He was a member of the bench in 1920 when the court by a unanimous decision held the Eighteenth amendment constitutional.

Willis Van Devanter sits to the left of the chief justice. Born in Indiana and educated at Yale, he went to Wyoming when the state was a territory. He was an assistant attorney general and was named to the Supreme Bench in 1910 by Taft. Lawyers who have argued before him have squirmed under his penetrating questions.

He is the court specialist in Indian laws and treaties. He delivered the 1920 decision holding the Eighteenth amendment constitutional.

James Clark McReynolds, a Tennesscean and a bachelor, sits by Holmes. He was attorney general from March, 1913, to August, 1914, when he was appointed associate justice.

He is blunt and direct, as many a lawyer attempting oratorical heights has learned. McReynolds also participated in the 1920 decision.

Louis Dembitz Brandeis is a Kentuckian, born in Louisville and educated abroad and at Harvard. He was named an associate justice in 1916 by Woodrow Wilson and confirmed after a sharp fight.

Some senators viewed his liberal attitude with distrust. He did not change them and goes along with Holmes many times on questions involving broad matters of public policy. Brandeis is an authority on law affecting the interstate commerce commission and railroads.

George Sutherland sits to the right of McReynolds. He was born in Buckinghamshire, England, educated at the University of Michigan, went to Utah and was a United States senator. He was appointed by Harding in 1922.

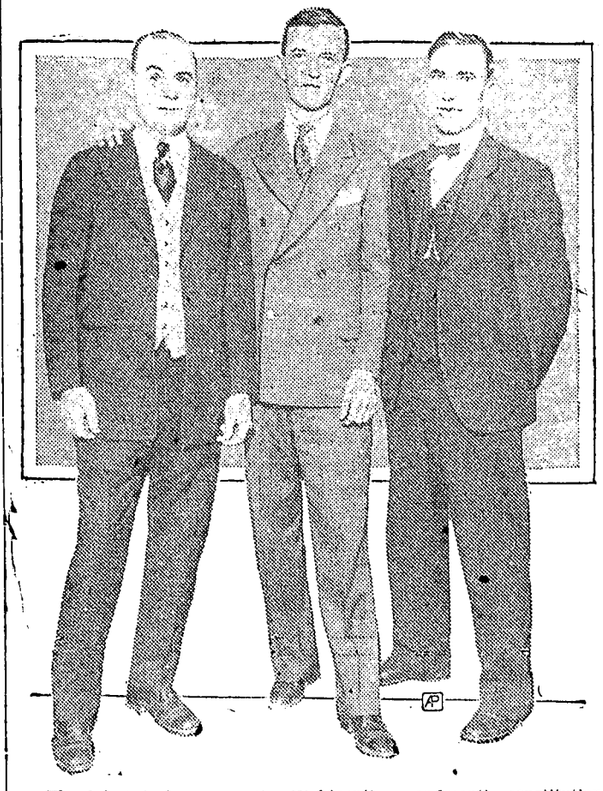

Pierce Butler, at Brandeis left, did no emigrating. He was born in Minnesota and in 1922 when Harding appointed him to the bench he was practicing law in St. Paul. He sides more frequently with Sutherland, McReynolds and Van Devanter, than with Holmes and Brandeis.

Harlan F. Stone, at the extreme right, is a New Yorker. A member of President Hoover's "medicine ball cabinet," he was expected by many to become chief justice when Taft resigned.

Some Senate progressives thought him too conservative when he was named by Coolidge in 1925, but paradoxically his views coincide many times with those of Holmes and Bandeis.

Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia is the youngest member of the bench. He made his reputation as a prosecutor in the oil lease cases. He was named just after the senate has rejected Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina in 1930, and pleased men as far apart in political tenets as Norris of Nebraska and Reed of Pennsylvania.

These are the jurists who will pass upon the Clark decision.

The latest test case on the Eighteenth amendment's constitutionality, soon to come before the United States Supreme court, involves an indictment concerning beer transported by William Sprague (right), New Jersey town clerk. His counsel includes Frederic M. P. Pearse (center) of New York. William J. Howey (left) owned the truck Sprague was driving when arrested.

SIAMESE TWINS OF TEXAS SEEKING MONEY ALLEGED DUE

FORMER GUARDIAN ADMITS COLLECTING MUCH MONEY AND GIVING THEM NONE

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Testimony concerning money alleged to be due Daisy and Violet Hilton, San Antonio Siamese twins, from their former guardian, Myer Myers, and his wife, Edith Emily Myers, and questioning about property owned by Myers opened the hearing of the twins' receivership suit against the couple in district court today.

The high spot of the morning session was reached just before noon recess when Martin Arnold, attorney for the 23 year old twins, asked Myers, only witness heard during the morning, a series of questions concerning a vaudeville contract with the Keith-Orpheum circuit which the twins fulfilled for forty-four weeks in 1927 at $3,000 a week.

Myers testified that ten percent of the total amount received for the contract was paid to an agent who negotiated the contract.

"What did you do with the rest of this money?" Arnold asked. "Did you give it to the girls?"

"The girls didn't want to take the money," Myers answered. "All their wants were provided for and they did not want the money."

"Did you understnd that the girls were giving you this money?"

"I understood that the money was to be kept in the family."

"You kept it?"

"Well, I wouldn't throw it away."

"Did you consider this money yours?"

"I had no reason to consider it anything else," Myers replied.

"Did you use any of the money to purchase stocks or bonds?"

"Yes."

CHURCH REVIVAL IS BEING CONDUCTED AT FIRST CHRISTIAN

A revival of church attendance, indoctrination and evangelism is now going on at the First Christian church. There was a capacity house yesterday at all services. There were 96 young people in attendance at Christian Endeavor hour with most of them remaining for the evangelistic service.

The Bible school attendance was at high water mark, two men, heads of families, were added to the church, one by confession and one by statement.

This campaign will continue through Easter and up to the first of June, and is well organized and under way. Fifty-eight officers and special workers were introduced at the prayer service last Wednesday evening, others will be presented from week to week.

ARMOUR COMPANY HEAD KILLED IN FALL IN CHICAGO

BELIEVED DIZZINESS CAUSED TUMBLE; CORONER SAYS WAS ACCIDENT

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The career of F. Edson White, multimillionaire who worked his way up from the ranks to the presidency of Armour and company, packers, was ended last night in a seven-story fall from a window of a bedroom in his Northside home.

His death, Deputy Coroner P. J. Dwyer and P. L. Reed, treasurer of Armour and company, said, was an accident.

Reed, who was expected to testify today at a coroner's inquest, expressed belief that a fall White suffered last Wednesday night when he arose to address company employes at a dinner, was responsible for the accident. He believed the previous accident caused White to become dizzy and lost his balance last night.

Affairs In Shape.

Reed said White's financial affairs were in excellent shape and that there was no reason why he should take his life. His statement that the death was an accident was concurred in by the deputy coroner, Dwyer.

In a statement Reed gave details of the dinner at which White was hurt and subsequent events.

"The diners," he said, "arose cheering. Mr. White, still sitting in his chair, half pushed it back to rise. Its rear legs slipped off the platform, Mr. White lost his balance and turned a somersault backwards, falling on the back of his head and shoulders."

White went home and yesterday complained of a headache, Reed said.

"I arrived at the apartment at 5:40, p. m.,, he said. "We chatted with Mrs. White in the living room, then she suggested we could talk better in the master chamber occupied by Mr. White.

Falls From Window.

"The French windows there are in a spacious bay with a bench seat concealing a radiator. Mr. White, who had been complaining that the apartment was too warm, opened the windows and sat in the seat swinging his feet and laughing as we talked. I wanted him and Mrs. White to accompany me and Mrs. Reed to a hockey match, but Mr. White said he thought he should rest. So I told him goodbye. While I was talking with Mrs. White in the living room her sister, Miss Kathleen Pearson went to answer the telephone and discovered Mr. White was gone."

White was chosen president of Armour and company in 1923 after a humble beginning as a car checker from which he was promoted district manager, later director, then vice-president, and finally president. He succeded J. Ogden Armour when the latter retired.

He was born in Peoria, Ill., September 9, 1873 and began his career as a packer in 1890, with only a common school education as his background.

Corsicana Girl Is Winner of Prize in Ad-Writing Contest

This morning's Dallas News carried pictures of the four winners in the Dallas News and the Dallas Journal $5,000 prize amateur ad-writing contest, and one of these was Miss Martha Sullenberger of this city, who won the $50 cash prize. The following is quoted from the News:

Corsicana Girl Winner

Miss Martha Sullenberger is the winner of the $50 final cash prize. She lives at 1515 West Third avenue, Corsicana, and is the first subscriber from that city to cash in on the contest. Many smaller prizes were awarded to Corsicana people, however.

Miss Sullenberger took as her theme the Campbell Cleaning and Dye Works and worked up a very deserving amateur advertisement. This ad is also printed today.

The last three winners are still undetermined concerning what they will do with the funds. Numerous recreational ventures are mentioned in the way of "What shall we do with the money," while school in the fall, new dresses, shoes and other pieces of attire of interest to femmes receives a considerable degree of attention.

The closing of the contest which hundreds of contestants vertisement writing competition in brings to an end ten weeks of adwere listed and in which numerous prizes were given out each week.

VICTIM GAS BLAST BURIED AT EMHOUSE SATURDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Miss Ada Kate O'Neal, 26, employee of the American Well & Prospecting Co. for a number of years, who met death Friday morning about 7:30 o'clock when an explosion of a stove ignited the W. M. Wilson home, corner North Fifteenth street and West Fourth Avenue, where she had an apartment, were held at Emhouse Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Her charred body was discovered by firemen after the blaze had been practically extinguished. It had been thought that she had already left the house. She was well known here, and was an active member of the Corsicana Business and Professional Women's club.

Residents of that section were startled by the blast that knocked windows out of the Wilson home and shook houses in the vicinity

The body was taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Neal at Emhouse Friday afternoon. The funeral was held from the Emhouse Baptist church with interment in the Pattison cemetery.

The services were conducted by Rev. P. Martin Baker, pastor of the Third Avenue Presbyterian church of Corsicana.

Active pallbearers were Ernest Newman, Ed Rittersbacher, Elmer Rittersbacher, Elliott Johnson, Pete Hook, Roy Bristow and M. J. W. Baker.

The Sutherland Funeral Home had charge of the funeral.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORTS FINDINGS TO LOWER HOUSE

WOULD STRENGTHEN IMMIGRATION AND DEPORTATION LAWS OF AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Fourteen recommendations for dealing with communism, including outlawry of that party in the United States, were laid before the house today by the Fish investigating committee.

Chairman Fish filed the report after an eight months study of communist activities. It was signed by himself and Representatives Bachmann, republican, West Virginia, and Eslick, Tennessee, and Hall, Mississippi, democrats. Representative Nelson, republican, Maine, submitted an individual report.

The committee made the following recommendations:

"That the communist party of the United States of America, section of the communist international be declared illegal x xx and that the executive authority of each state and the legislature therefore be informed of the revolutionary principles and objectives of the communist party and be requested to take appropriate action to have such party excluded from or denied recognition as a political entity.

"Enlarging the authority of the department of justice for the purpose of investigating x x x the revolutionary propaganda and activities of the communists in the United States.

"Strengthening the immigration laws to prevent the admission of communists x x x and providing for the immediate deportation of all alien communists.

"Provide for additional appropriations to the bureau of immigration for vigorous handling of deportation cases.

"Amend the naturalization laws so as to forbid the naturalization of the communists.

Would Cancel Citizenship.

"Amend the naturalization laws so as to cancel the the United States citizenship of a communist.

"Deny re-entry to the United States to an alien who has visited Russia to secure training in communistic doctrine.

"Amend the post office laws to declare non-mailable all newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, circulars, etc., published, written or produced advocating revolutionary communism.

"Amend interstate commerce laws to prohibit transportation of newspapers, magazines, pamphets and circulars advocating revolutionary communis.

"Enactment of federal law to prosecute communists or other persons, organizations, newspapers, etc., spreading flase rumors for the purpose of causing runs on banks.

"Restriction, or elimination of the use of secret codes or ciphers with any government with which the United States has no diplomatic relations and its trade agencies.

Seeks Personal Inspection.

"In view of the fact the soviet government is under the control and direction of the communists, that the treasury department request, through the state government, permission to send inspectors or agents to investigate the prison camps and the pulpwod and timber cutting district or Soviet Russia and report back regarding the alleged production of lumber and plupwood by convict labor.

"That the treasury department should request through the state department permission to send inspectors or agents to investigate the use of forced or indentured labor in Soviet Russia, and "that immediate consideration be given by the congress to the placing of an embargo on the importation of Manganese from Soviet Russia."

A bill to exclude entry of communists into this country was introduced by Representative Bachman. The West Virginian said the measure was necessary in order to prevent an influx of communists.

WASHINGTON, Jan 17.—(AP)—Communism was branded a grave threat to democratic governments and their economic structure in the formal report submitted today to the house by its special communist investigating committee.

In a summary of evidence gathered in an eight months study in every section of the country of comumnistic activities, the committee detailed its findings as a basis of legislative action. Its recommendations for strengthening immigration and deportation laws and federal surveillance of radical activities were to be made public later today.

The group of five led by Representative Fish, republican, New York, was ordered by the house last night to inquire into communist activities. Their report estimated there were between 500,000 and 600,000 communists and active sympathizers in this country. Only 12,000, however, were considered dues-paying members of the party.

The principles and aims of communists are the same throughout the world, said the committee and all take their orders from the communist international with headquarters in Moscow and "obey them implicitly."

"The committee is convinced," it added, "that the surest and most effective way of combatting communism in the United States is to give the fullest possible publicity to the fundamental principles and aims of the comumnists."

Could Finance Revolution.

The five-year industrialization program of the soviet union if successful, the committee held, would become so great a money making machine that it "may finance comumnism in world revolution."

"The purpose of the plan," it continued, "is not to build up but to tear down and destroy."

The committee said Russia had hurt American manganese producing industry and apparently was threatening the United States grain, lumber and wood pulp industries and anthracite producers.

An individual report was submitted by Representative Nelson of Maine, ranking majority member, in which he predicted bolshevism could not obtain in this country, but suggested:

"We perhaps need a new attitude of thought and a more liberal approach to some of our problems. The salution of this problem lies in the wisdom of our legislators and in the unselfishness of our industrialists."

Recommends Legislation.

He recommended legislation to enable the justice department to maintain a close watch on all radical activities; closer administration of the visa system and drastic laws for deporting undesirable aliens; support of organized labor and rigid postal inspection of all radical publications.

The committee, specifically instructed to investigate the Amtorg corporation, unofficial trading representative of the soviet union, fond its export and import trade amounted to many millions annually although "its business is conducted largely on a credit basis with only $2,000,000 invested capital and the commerce to America from Russia is only about onethird of the amount of purchases in the United States."

Doubt Documents Genuine.

The committee said testimony regarding the documents seized in New York by former Police Commisioner Whalen had failed to establish their genuineness.

Testimony, it said, also led to the opinion that the short selling of wheat on the Chicago board of trade by Russian agencies last fall was done with no intent to depress the price of wheat.

"While the communists so far have been unsuccessful in their plans for 'boring from within' and 'capturing' the American Federation of Labor," the report continued, "they have succeeded in weakening and virtually breaking up and destroying a number of important unions of the federation notably in the garment, needle, textile, and mining trades."

AMERICAN LEGION OPPOSES PROPOSED SHOW ORDINANCE

MEMBERS OF LOCAL POST GROW CAUSTIC IN DENOUNCING PROPOSITION

A resolution opposing the proposed city ordinance that aims to forbid the presentation of shows, or entertainments under tents, in tin, or sheet-iron buildings, in the city limits, that is being considered by the city commission, was unanimously adopted at a called meeting of the Johnson-Wiggins Post No. 22 American Legion, Friday night. When Andrew G. Steele, post commander, introduced the subject, and explained the nature of the proposed ordinance, a volley of vitriolic expressions in opposition to the enactment were heard from the members assembled.

After the colors were advanced, the opening prayer was given by Rev. A. C. Carraway, post chaplain, and educational director of the First Methodist church.

Miss Ruth Matthews, well known Corsicana expression teacher, appeared before the Legion and submitted two entertainment features for consideration for the Legion's sponsorship. Miss Matthews announced one to be a dance, musical and comedy revue, and the other a play. Considerable discussion followed, and it was decided to appoint a committee to investigate the proposition. Post Commander Steele named C. C. McClung, A. C. Carraway and Harry Dickson to confer with Miss Matthews on the matter.

Members Caustic.

Post Commander Steele gave a detailed explanation of the proposed city ordinance and pointed out that if enacted, it will prohibit the presentation in the city limits of Corsicana of any kind of show, carnival or entertainment that is shown under a tent, in a tin or sheet-iron building. This explanation was met with many caustic remarks by members, and a motion was made to the effect that the Legion draft a resolution opposing the ordinance's ratification.

C. E. McWilliams, Corsicana attorney, and legal advisor of the Legion, read a resolution that had been prepared for the occasion. After its reading, considerable discussion ensued, and it was voted unanimously to adopt the resolution.

The following copy of the resolution was given the Daily Sun with the request that it be published:

Resolution Adopted.

Whereas, The city commission of the city of Corsicana, Texas, now has under consideration passing an ordinance to prohibit carnivals and so-called tent shows and organizations of similar character from giving performances in the city of Corsicana; and

Whereas, We believe that the enactment of such an ordinance would be for the special benefit of other individuals and organizations engaged in the same character of entertainment owned by persons and organizations just as foreign to our city as the organizations against which this ordinance is directed, and that said ordinance would be detrimental to and not for the best interest of our city; and

Whereas, Johnson-Wiggins Post No. 22 American Legion, of Corsicana, Texas, is opposed to the enactment of said ordinance.

Resolved, That Johnson-Wiggins Post No. 22, American Legion, oppose the enactment of said ordinance and petition the honorable city commission of the city of Corsicana, Texas, not to pass said ordinance.

Respectfully submitted,
ANDREW G. STEELE,
Post Commander.
A. L. SPRINGFIELD,
Adjutant.

SHEPPARD SPEAKS ON ANNIVERSARY OF PROHIBITION LAW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Marking the eleventh anniversary of national prohibition one of the authors of the Eighteenth amendment told the senate today the dry clause would stay in the constitution forever.

He was Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, making the first senate speech on the liquor question this session, with a fighting defense of prohibition.

Denying it had caused an increase in crime or of drinking among young people, Sheppard told his colleagues repeal of the Eighteenth amendment would "let loose upon your country evils which will mean the arrest of its progress, the wreck of its glory, the pollution of its name and fame."

"Those who clamor for the restoration of legalized liquor have short memories or no knowledge of the lawlessness and corruption for which legalized liquor stood," Sheppard said.

"The fight against beverage alcohol reached an intensive status," he said, "when increased population, * * * increased chances for gain made possible by the machine age united to bring about the manufacture of intoxicants to an extent that threatened the permanent corruption and control of government, the general impairment of health and morals and efficiency."

Pointing to what he called hopeless division among the wets, Sheppard said, "some of them advocate the complete entry of the federal government into the liquor business, others suggest each state be authorized to engage in the liquor business it it should so desire and still others would leave the situation as it was before the Eighteenth amendment was adopted."

Government Control Bad.

Government control has demonstrated elsewhere, he said, that it increases the consumption of liquor and results in "unspeakable political corruption and degredation of the government."

"The principal foundation on which prohibition rests today," Sheppard continued, "is the voluntary obedience of the great mass of the American people."

"The comparative handful of prohibition enforcement officials, about 1,700, * * * scattered among 123,000,000 American people would be overwhelmed but for the fact that they must cope with but a comparatively small and lawless minority.

"To call this enforcement group and army threatening the home, menacing privacy, and imperilling the liberty of the American people in another wringing-wet absurdity."

Senators opposed to prohibition made no reply to Sheppard.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, characterized it as 'the greatest prohibition speech I have ever heard."

"No man in public life has done as much for prohibition as Senator Sheppard," Heflin said.

SEES DAUGHTER DIE, DROPS DEAD

ACID after meals

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drugstores—in 25c and 50c bottles.

Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle.

Kerens Woman Died In Local Hospital Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. J. A. Blissett, aged 35 years, resident of Kerens, died in the Physicians and Surgeons hospital Saturday afternon at 1:30 o'clock and the body was taken to the Corley-McMahon Funeral Home where it was prepared for burial.

Mrs. Blissett was admitted to the hospital, Dec. 30, 1930.

The funeral will be held in Kerens Sunday afternoon.

Surviving are her husband, five children, Ernest, Louise, Gordon, Billie Joe and Wanda Sue Blissett, father, G. R. Washburn, three brothers, Burt, Aud and Charlie Washburn, all of Kerens; and one sister, Mrs. E. J. Gilbert, Fairfield.

VARIED SUBJECTS COVERED IN BILLS BEFORE LAWMAKERS

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The first week of the 42nd legislative session was at an end today with both houses adjourned until Monday.

While legislation had made little progress, a sufficient number of bills had been introduced or were in process of preparation to show that the lawmakers would deal with a great variety of subjects.

Drivers licenses, payment of taxes twice instead of once a year, conservation of soil from erosion, relief for tenant farmers and repeal of the new marriage license law requiring notice of intention to wed three days prior to the marriage were some of the things already proposed in bills.

Cotton acreage reduction, truck regulation, a $200,000,000 highway bond issue, the income tax, public utility regulation, removal of the ad valorem tax at least from the small property owners and conservation of water for municipal and domestic use were some of the proposals havering in the background.

Senator Walter Woodul of Houston, administration leader, said he planed to introduce the highway bond issue proposal next week and a hard fight was predicted by both sides.

More speed was expected on the semi-annual tax payment proposal than on any other important measure because that must be passed by February 1 in order to be of any benefit this year. Taxes become delinquent on February 1.

The senate state affairs had ordered printed a semi-annual tax payment bill by Senator Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls and had set a public hearing for Monday. A like bill had been offered in the house.

Rules Question

The question of rules was another matter expected to receive quick attention. The legislature had to decide what it wanted to do with the new plan contained in a constitutional amendment voted in November which set aside the first 30 days for introduction of measures, the next 30 days for committee consideration and the final sixty days for floor consideration. This matter was set as a special order in the house for next Wednesday. It was considered likely that the senate would wait until the house had acted. In order to make a change in the procedure outlined in the constitutional amendment, both houses must agree to it by a four fifths vote.

J. E. McDonald, state agricultural commissioner, had sponsored a bill to set up a commission to reduce cotton acreage and considerable opposition had developed notwithstanding that the measure had not yet been introduced. Senator Oliver C. Cunningham of Abilene also was considering offering a cotton acreage reduction measure.

The legislature was not expected to get going in full swing until after the inauguration Tuesday of Governor Sterling.

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN KILLS SELF FRIDAY MORNING

BODY OF J. B. HAYNES FOUND IN BATHROOM WITH PISTOL NEARBY

J. B. Haynes, aged 56 years, insurance man, died at 407 1-2 South Thirteenth street Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock from gunshot wounds and a coroner's verdict was returned by Judge J. L. Cox of "death by gunshot wounds, self-inflicted." Judge Cox and Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse and Deputy Sheriff Jack Floyd answered the call.

Haynes was shot with a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol, Sheriff Pevehouse stated, the bullet entering back of the right ear and emerging at the top of the head. Death apparently was instantenous. Members of the family heard a shot and his body was found in the bathroom with the pistol nearby.

The tragedy occurred at the home of his father-in-law, J. F. Massey.

No cause for the act has been advanced.

The body was taken to the Sutherland Funeral Home where it was prepared for burial. No funeral arrangements had been made early Friday afternoon pending the arrival of relatives, but it is expected that the services will be held here sometime Saturday with interment in Oakwood cemetery.

Haynes had been here some time and had been in the insurance business for many years.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Ennis Davis, who was killed by a freight train at Sweetwater, Texas, Dec. 22, 1930, and shipped to Kerens, Dec. 23, and carried to his oldest sister's at DeArmon, and kept over night.

Ennis was born Aug. 21, 1905. He was 25 years, 4 months and 1 day old at his death. He was a member of the Methodist church at Bazette. He was a young man of moral character and had lots of friends who were grieved to learn of his death. He was the baby boy of a family of eight children, 3 girls and 5 boys, Thomas, Robert, Finley and Bennie Davis, al lof DeArmon, Texas, and Mrs. Ethel Ross of Dearmon, Mrs. Arzella Gowan of Eastland, Mrs. Delia Lively of Wilson. All were present at his funeral. The services were conducted by Rev. McAfee of Kerens, and Rev. McCord of Bazette at the Methodist church at Prairie Point, where interment was made. Weep not brothers and sisters, for he has paid the debt we have all got to pay for one by one. We are dropping out and when a loved one leaves this world and we feel that it is ous loss and heaven's gain, it is a sweet consolation for we have more treasures in heaven and we should live closer to god and strive the harder to meet our loved ones where there will be no more sad parting and srrow to come into our home.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

FIVE million modern mothers will tell you that children DO cry for Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers always give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tiny tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless; irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant—yet it is effective for children in their teens. You never have to coax children to take Castoria; they love its taste.

Be ready for the next case of sour stomach, constipation, or other need for Castoria!

When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

Hatchery! Hatchery!

We will start our incubators Monday, January 12th. Eggs are cheap enough to set and it will be good idea to get off some early chickens. We will hatch this year for $3.00 per tray. Book your space by Saturday of each week.

HENS — We are loading car poultry each week and if have any surplus now would be good time to sell.

Yours truly,

RECOMMENDATIONS AND OTHER MATTERS MADE IN TRANSFER

OPPOSITION TO 10-SEMESTER RULE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE PLANNED

Opposition to the proposed 10-semester rule, discussion of the membership campaign and ethics in coaching profesison, approval of the proposed re-districting of the state into sixteen districts instead of the present eight with the exception of some changes in the proposed alignment of teams, disapproval of the proposed closing of the district races one week before Thanksgiving, and the recommendation that school superintendents refuse to sign trasfer slips for students transferring from one school to another in the event that there is any evidence that the transfer is in the nature of proselyting athletes, were among the recommendations passed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Texas High School Football Coaches Association held at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday mrning at 10 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the coaches association will be held in San Antonio, Sunday, Sept. 6, 1931, in connection with the annual meeting of the Southwestern conference, Texas conference, Texas Interscholastic Athletic association and football officials. President Johnny A. Pierce, coach of Corsicana high school, who presided at the meeting, said that committees would be appointed in the near future for the purpose of arranging for this annual meeting.

The executive committee went on record as favoring that 10 semesters be used for attendance instead of 10 semesters from the time that a student entered high school to be used in determining eligibility for athletics.

Membership Drive

It was decided that an intensive program would be carried on among the coaches of the state for an increase in membership. There are more than 40 coaches in the association at the present time and it is hoped that there will be about 200 by the time the annual convention is held. Considerable discussion was also held concerning the ethics of the coaching profession.

The committee also recommended that when a boy in the eighth grade played on a junior high school team against other junior high schools, that the year not be counted against him in his high school time of eligibility.

Transfer Discussion

After considerable discussion on the question of proselyting of athletes from one school to another, and the proposed asking for a rule making a transfer ineligible for one year, it was decided that the superintendents be urged to refuse to sign a transfer slip for a student if there was any doubt that the transfer is in the nature of proselyting.

Another recommendation passed was that no home officials be used in football games except in those towns where there are more than one high school.

The redistricting of the class A teams from eight to sixteen districts was approved, but rigorously opposed the proposed closing of the district season before Saturday after Thanksgiving due to the long-time rivalry and good crowds Thanksgiving day games produced, pointing out that the week longer time would not affect many schools. The proposed alignment of the teams in some instances, however, was suggested to be shifted, especially Greenville which has been placed in a district where there would not be much rivalry for several years, and where excessive traveling would be necessary.

Those present included President Pierce, Corsicana; Jimmie Kitts, Athens, vice-president; Winton Noah, Oak Cliff, Dallas, and Jesse Kellam, Lufkin, members of the board of trustees; and Jim Reese, Greenville, and Ted L. Jeffries, assistant coach, Corsicana.

Purdon Defeated Pursley Wednesday By Heavy Score

In a game featured by the fast passing attack of the victors, Purdon high school's quintet took an overwhelming count from Pursley, 39-11, on the Purdon court Wednesday, Jan. 14. Slaughter, winning forward, topped the scoring column with 7 field goals and one donated toss for 15 markers. The junior teams of both schools engaged in a goal tossing battle, which Purdon won to the tune of 13-11.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

SPORT NOTES

By PAUL MOORE, LIGHT SPORTS EDITOR

Texas Aggies, S. M. U. and T. C. U. cage quints became the favorites for the Southwestern Conference cage honors with the recording of the results of play in the circuit during the week-end, although the Arkansas Porkers are still in the running, but with two losses against their record. The Texas Aggies came back strong Saturday to down the Porkers in Fayetteville after losing Friday night. S. M. U. socked the Texas Longhorns, 51-32, and T. C. U. whammed the Longhorns, 40-19, Friday, and coupled with their earlier loss to Arkansas the stock of the Texas P. quint went to nothing.. Rice, after being buffeted about by T. C. U. S. M. U. and Arkansas, downed the Golden Bears of Baylor in Houston Saturday night.

Baylor meets S. M. U. in Dallas Tuesday, and T. C. U. entertains the Porkers in Fort Worth Friday and Saturday nights in the feature series of the week. Texas entertains Baylor in Austin, and the Texas Aggies play Rice in College Station Saturday.

Corsicana Tiger cagers play Mexia here Thursday night in the only combat scheduled for the week, and incidentally it will be the first game to be played in the new gym.

Jimmie Kitts, coach of Athens Hornets, was in Corsicana Sunday attending the executive committee meeting of the Texas Coaches. After he found out that the Tigers had a new gymnasium and also since the Tigers had bounded into prominence by their win over Highland Park Friday, he is anxious for a game with the Junglebeasts and he and Coach Douglas went into a conference relative to a game in the near future. Athens is always a good drawing card. The Hornets did not do so well on their northern invasion during the holidays. It was a good trip from a financial standpoint.

Kitts said that the teams in Indiana were not better than some of the Texas clubs, but that there were more good teams there than here. However, his explanation of the situation was that the teams there were further advanced at this season of the year than Texas teams as basketball practice starts there October 1 Basketball draws better crowds there than they do here.

Kitts said that he would have a good club in the field by the time that the state competition got under way, and the writer believes that he will.

Winton Noah, coach of the Oak Cliff Leopards, said he did not see the Highland Park-Corsicana game last week, but from all the reports he had heard, Dallas thought the Tigers were plenty good. Coach Douglas was optimistic and complimentary about his boys' play in the game, and they must have been plenty fine to evoke Douglas' unstinted approval.

Cage coaches of Navarro county decided that the annual class B cage tournament would be held on the Y. M. C. A. court here Feb. 13-14, and the winner of this tournament will meet the Corsicana Tigers for the county championship a few days later. The girls coaches will meet Saturday to make plans for the girls tournament. It is expected that the girls tourney will be held later than that of the boys, due to the fact that no state championship tournament is sponsored for the sextettes.

C. E. McClelland, sports editor, Temple Telegram, devotes considerable space Sunday telling his readers that from present indications, athletics in Temple high school are going to be improved—that a veteran football team will be available—a new line coach will be procured—possibly a new football field and grandstand—a new baseball park—and a gymnasium. He does not figure that the Wildcats will win the district title.

The Dallas Steers will come to Corsicana to open their 1931 training camp March 4 and will remain here until April 7, with the exception of the week-ends spent in Dallas when exhibition games are on tap. A large number of exhibition games have been arranged. The Mavericks will be led into Corsicana by Hap Morse, new skipper, and Bob Tarleton, vice-president and business manager. Both are well-known here and were connected with the club when it trained here a couple of years ago. Morse was an infielder at that time, and his elevation to the managership was a popular move — the "Blond beauty" being one of the most popular players ever to play in a Dallas uniform.

Purdon Defeated Pursley Quint On Former's Court

Purdon high school's basketball five smothered the Pursley aggregation by the one-sided count of 30-5 on the vistor's court Wednesday, Jan. 14. Dawdle, for Purdon, was high point man with six field goals to his credit. Outstanding players were Gunn, of Pursley, and Dawdle, of Purdon.

Triangles to Play Missouri Pacific Y Team of Palestine

The Corsicana Y. M. C. A. Triangles returned from Palestine Wednesday night in first class condition, after defeating the Maccabees 57-39, and will engage the Missouri Pacific Y. M. C. A. team of Palestine here Wednesday night, Jan. 21, at 8 o'clock, according to an announcement Friday morning by C. F. Broughton, physical director.

The visitors are conceded to be one of the strongest independent teams in East Texas, having defeated numerous strong high school quints in that sector.

An admission charge of twenty-five cents will be made for the game. The Triangles have played and defeated many strong quints this season, and interest is at a high pitch. It is expected that many Corsicana basketball fans will be on hand Wednesday night.

BOYS WILL PLAY FEBRUARY 13-14; PLANS SATURDAY

DETAILS OF GIRLS' TOURNAMENT WILL BE MADE NEXT SATURDAY

Navarro county class B basketball champion of the University of Texas Interscholastic League will be determined in a tournament here Friday and Saturday, Feb. 13-14 on the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium court, according to plans worked out at a meeting of county coaches held Saturday afternoon in the office of County Superintendent Dan D. Hanks at the court house. Coaches of girls' class B county basketball teams will meet to decide when and where their tournament will be held at the court house next Saturday, Jan. 24.

The meeting was opened by W T. Brumbalow, director general of the Navarro County Interscholastic league, but it was turned over to L. N. Crabtree, director of athletics, who presided over the discussions.

Coming in for a large share of discussion was the motion to employ officials who live outside of Navarro county, and who have no connection here. This motion carried, and it was tentatively decided to use Southwestern conference officials, if they are available at the time of the tournament.

Admission Prices

Considerable discussion ensued when price of admission for the tourney was introduced, and it was finally decided that tickets allowing the holder to see all the first day's games would be sold for twenty-five cents; tickets permitting the holder to see all the second morning and afternoon's games would be sold for twenty-five cents; and tickets for the semi-finals and finals Saturday night would be twenty-five cents.

A meeting of the county executive committee was scheduled for Saturday afternoon, but due to inclement weather conditions, all were not present, and the meeting was temporarily postponed.

Twenty Expected

According to pre-tournament dope, it is probable that over twenty Navarro county class B basketball teams will enter the struggle, which is likely to be closely contested by all entrants. The coaches have been working their charges into shape for the past few months, and many practice games have been played on the Y. M. C. A. court here. Basketball is the foremost sport with the Navarro county high schools, and every team is followed by hordes of rabid fans.

Rice's high school quintet is the defending champion, having won last year's tourney by defeating Providence in the finals 25-6, giving the latter team undisputed right to second place honors. Rural Shade placed third last year, after having bowled in the semi-final contest to Rice after a hard gruelling battle.

Aside from winning the class B title last year, the Rice cagers won both the 1929 and 1930 Y. M. C. A. invitation tournaments.

MEXIA, Jan. 16.—(Spl.)—Two hundred Odd Fellows from 10 towns in Central Texas were here Tuesday night for the inter-city meeting of the lodge. Owen F. Watkins of Mexia, was the principal speaker. Other talks were made by District Judge H. F. Kirby and Deputy Grand Master F. M. Compton. Rev. E. E. Rogers was toastmaster.

An "Oil Cities" inter-city league of Odd Fellows lodges was formed, with Frank W. Evens, of Mexia, as secretary. The new league will include lodges in Limestone and Navarro counties. The first meeting will be at Corsicana on February 12. O. F. Watkins was made publicity chairman for the league.

Lodgemen were present from Waco, Temple, Groesbeck, Ben Hur, Thornton, Kosse, Coolidge, Teague, Corsicana, Marlin and Reroy.

HIGHWAY CONTRACTS OF $5,000,000 WILL BE LET BY STATE

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—One of the most ambitious highway programs in recent months will be undertaken today and tomorrow by the state highway commission when contracts calling for work estimated to cost $5,000,000 will be awarded. County delegations will be heard Wednesday with about 40 scheduled to appear.

The January program called for improvement of 307 miles and construction of four bridges, included 124 miles of concrete paving, 118 miles of other paving and surface treatment and 65 miles of grading and drainage.

Contracts will be awarded today in Leon, Foard, Sterling, Madison, Brazoria, Childress, Nueces, Jones, Dimmitt, Knox, Archer, Madison and Brazos, Ellis, Cottle, Waller, Hudspeth and Culberson, Shackelford, Dallas, Caldwell, Atascosa, Burnet and Hartley counties.

Awards tomorrow will be made in Coke, Kinney, Wichita, Hardeman, Hale, Houston, Anderson, Milam, Grayson Comal, Travis and Bastrop, Young and Tarrant counties.

Limestone County Chapter of Honor Fraternity Planned

MEXIA, Jan. 16.—(Spl.)—A Limestone county chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, honor fraternity of women teachers, will be formed here next Saturday night, when Dr. Anna Webb Blanton, of Austin, national president, and Miss Mamie S. Bastian, Houston, state president, conduct initiation ceremonies at the Mexia high school. The initiation will follow a banquet at the school cafeteria.

The Mexia committee in charge includes Mrs. Sparks B. Jenkins, Miss Cora Seymour, Miss Annie Whittaker, and Mrs. J. C. Cochran. Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. C. D. Kelly of Groesbeck will be honorary members. The Limestone chapter will be the Tau chapter.

CHANGE OF STYLE ATTACK IN SECOND PERIOD EFFECTIVE

POLLARD, CENTER FOR TIGERS, ACCOUNTED FOR DOZEN POINTS

DALLAS, Jan. 17.—Trailing the Highland Park cagers 10-7 at the half, the Corsicana Tigers staged a sensational comeback here Friday night to finally win the game, 19-15 in a fast contest which was staged on the Highland Park gymnasium. The Highlanders held a slight advantage during the entire half, but the Junglebeasts came back with a bang in the third.

The Tigers came back at the beginning of the second half and did not look like the same club, slashing, darting and dodging, and employing different tactics which could not be coped with by the Highlanders who had defeated Denton and Estelline, champions and runers-up of the 1930 state Interscholastic league, earlier in the week.

Defensive play of the Tigers was outstanding and the Highlanders could not get a shot without being buffeted and harassed by the speedy Tigers.

For the Tigers, Pollard, center, a marked man, led the scoring for the evening when he accounted for five field goals and two free tosses for 12 points.

Fine Guards

Pryor and Clark, guards for the Bengals, displayed some of the finest guarding seen on the local painted floors of this season, while Hart and Fulghum, forwards for the locals, topped the scoring for that club with six points each.

The contest was free from fouls, and it was a snappy and hard-fought affair.

A number of Corsicana cage enthusiasts accompanied the Bengals on their Dallas invasion.

With the turning in of this victory, the Corsicana contingent, defending district 5 champions, stamped itself as a strong contender for district honors and state tourney honors for the 1931 season. Corsicana is undefeated this year.

Once ahead, Corsicana uncovered a skillfully used delayed offense which split the locals' defense and alowed the Tiger to not only protect their lead, but to widen it.

The eagle-eye shooting of Pollard, Tiger center, was one of the outstanding features of the melee

Dew Bears Defeat Teague Cage Team

TEAGUE, Jan. 19.—(Spl.)—The Teague Lions cage team was soundly thrashed here Friday afternoon when the invading Dew Bears defeated them 19 to 11. V. Emmons of Dew scored 11 points for his mates, the total number scored by the Lions.

The Lions, although they got off to a late start in basketball, still have high hopes of developing into a strong contender for the county crown before the time of the first tournament of the conference, which comes in about two weeks, Jan 31.

House and Contents At Emhouse Burned

Fire thought to have been caused from burning cotton which was being picked destroyed a house and household effects at Emhouse Friday afternoon, according to information received here Monday morning.

The house was owned by Carrie Crim of Oklahoma, and was occupied by J. T. Foster. The loss was estimated at $500 with no insurance.

IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITIONS AIDS TEXAS RAILROAD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—Recent improvement in bond market conditions and decreases in interest rates has enabled the Texas & Pacific railroad to withdraw a proposal to borrow temporarily from banks $13,000,000 on its own short term notes.

The withdrawal was approved by the interstate commerce commission today.

The railroad has recently made heavy expenditures for new construction undertaken and contemplated in Texas territory, the commission explained, and arranged to sell $19,700,000 in bonds. When bond buying decreased the issue was witheld from the market and the railroad arranged for bank loans, but within the last week has been able to negotiate the sale of the original securities to meet its investment program.

MACDONALD MAKES PRONOUNCEMENT OF POLICY IN INDIA

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ramsay MacDonald, beginning his long awaited pronouncement on British policy in India, today told delegates to the Indian round-table conference that he accepted the idea of an all Indian federation as the desire of the round-table delegates.

"It is a great achievment," he said, "both for India and Great Britain. We are grateful to you."

The Indians, said the premier, must settle their own communal disputes, for Britain is neither pro-Hindu, pro-Moslem, nor pro-any-section of the Indian population.

"The attitude of the British government," he told the delegates, "is nothing more than an overpowering desire to let you settle your own affairs."

He said he did not like the idea of placing "safeguards" about the proposed Indian government, but he pointed out they they exist in every constitution in the world.

"It is not that we want to interfere," he said, "but such safeguards as the financial safeguards which are proposed are necessary to keep India right in the eyes of the world."

One of his important pronouncements was a promise to grant amnesty to political prisoners in India if appeals made in their behalf at the roundtable conference are responded to in India civil quiet and order.

He said also that the necessary steps would be taken for the separation of Burma from India. This was an outstanding issue of the conference.

HOW TO DEVELOP RURAL ROADS.

Road-building, in the past year, has almost always been attended by a certain amount of waste, because of lack of information, "political" allocation of funds and —in a few instances—plain ordinary graft.

Now the good roads movement—with especial attention being paid to farm-to-market roads—is making unprecedented progress. It has been stimulated by the drought and unemployment situations, as well as by the crying need for year-round, surface arteries of transportation for agriculture. Many states and hundreds of counties, in all sections of the country, are seeking ways and means of providing the farms with necessary roads as quickly and as economically as possible.

Norman M. Blaney, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, says that country road plans "should be designated so that the outlying territories will have access to the main highways." To achieve this, he points out, road committees should be formed, made up of fair-minded, unbiased citizens It would be their duty to assemble facts and to decide just what roads are necessary for carrying on the business, social and economic life of their communities. Those roads which will serve the greatest number of people should naturally be improved first.

Communities which take the lead in rural road construction will be leaders in progress and future prosperity.

At least give the Corsicana merchant the opportunity to fill your needs before going elsewhere.

MORBID CURIOSITY.

Aside from relatives and friends of inmates, a majority of prison visitors have no motive in filing through cell blocks and workrooms save the same sort of curiosity that causes crowds to collect at the scenes of accidents.

Servitude at hard labor within stone walls is adequate punishment for law violation without forcing a convict to go on daily exhibition before gaping crowds of the morbid. In the interest of prison betterment, all penal institutions ought always to be open to inspection by representatives of the public. But they ought never be open to mere sightseers.

So long as prisons admit visitors, visitors will abound. There is never an execution that the officials do not receive hundreds of applications for admission to the death chamber. Pressure is always brought to bear upon authorities to admit spectators—all of whom ought to have a better rein on their unhealthy instincts. Whenever a particularly notorious offender is confined in a penitentiary crowds flock to the doors merely for the purpose of getting a glimpse of him. The same thing occurs at murder trials, morgues, the scenes of crimes and funerals of the notable and notorious.

Reform in this direction will serve a double purpose. It will protect from the stares and grins of strangers men already sufficiently punished, and it will save from their own worse idle curiosity people who are edified by the sight of misery.

Some of these psychologists could make a fortune by writing a book on how to resist a high-powered salesman.

It's a rare epidemic that doesn't start in the third grade.

JUST FOLKS

DOC'S FIRST QUERY.

When comes my doctor unto me
In answer to my pleading,
To give that balm for agony
Which I am sorely needing,
When he has put his coat away
And made his formal greeting,
He'll look at me and sternly say:
"Well, what have you been eating?"

As like a timid child I rise
To tell my tale of anguish,
How spots are thick before my eyes
As in fever languish.
He shakes his wise old head and gray
At all that I'm repeating;
Then to the god wife turns to say:
"Well, what has he been eating?"

Is there no other source of pain
Than pie and cake and cheeses,
Do I from red roast beef obtain
Whatever my disease is?
Is there no way, in innocence,
Of stray bacilli meeting
That always he must thus commence:
"Well, what have you been eating?"

If to that far off Heavenly shore
My doctor goes before me,
And standing at the pearly door
I find him waiting, for me,
I'll wager as I step inside
Where angel wings are beating,
He'll say to me: "And so you've died!
Well, what have you been eating?"

THE PUBLIC'S MONEY.

Politicians seldom miss a good thing, and they often spoil a good thing. Everything beneficial to the state or nation is sooner or later exploited by the politicians, often at the sacrifice of the thing itself. That is why the taxpayers do not complain overmuch if they do not get dollar for dollar value for their tax dollars. They are sufficiently sophisticated to expect the politicians to apply a portion to politics.

Machinations of this sort are now at work in Pennsylvania. The disputed power behind the throne wants more power. He has elected a governor and in order to strengthen his position is erecting his fences that he may name the next governor. He will use for fence money the state's huge highway fund, not corruptly but expediently. A highway commissioner of his choice will spend the highway funds where they will do the most good, politically; it isn't difficult to build up a strong political organization with a fund which builds so many roads and employs so many people as the Keystone state's annual highway budget.

It is a foregone conclusion that, while the federal government's huge relief fund will go for drought and unemployment relief, every dollar of it will be applied where it will have an effect in 1932 and for the "good work" in senatorial and congressional districts. "Human misery" has its advantages for an anemic political party with a depleted hope chest. Rendering this relief is a good thing, a noble thing, but there are a lot of politicians who see only the ignoble uses to which they can put it. To them it is a politically "good thing."

Introduction in congress of 47 different varieties of bills for unemployment relief for World War veterans means two things: Congressmen are interested in the ex-service men and in having them know from whence their blessings fall. These legislative windfalls always concern large blocks of votes.

Regardless of the gloom talk broadcast to the four winds by the depression howlers the Weather Man serenely continued to give us sunshine — and it is mighty hard to be depressed when Texas weather has on its party clothes.

The day seems gradually to be waning when a picture of a bathing beauty was considered persuasive advertising for such divers articles as automobiles, floor wax and five-cent candy bars.

Scientists have discovered that a flea can go without food for two weeks. Now the question arises, in connection with the dog's vacation, can it name the two weeks that it wants?

The spring hat will be lighter this year than last, says a male dress authority in one of the 36-cent magazines. Wonderful, what these cleaners can do nowadays.

It is still true that money talks, but in these strenuous days it takes a $10 bill to speak above a whisper.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

ROBOT ARMIES.

The number of people who are always thinking of the "next war" is positively breath-taking.

One of them is preparing for it by experiments with an iron airplane pilot which will make it possible in the "next war" to send up such mechanical pilots from opposing forces to carry death and destruction into enemy territory. This is a step in the right direction.

The world now has only to await the day when some one will think of inventing equally ingenious iron men to remain on the ground and be blown up by their metal brothers of the air; more iron men to wage combat in no-man's land, and still more to do battle on and under the seas. Then the human race will be able to sit back and really enjoy the excitement of the "next war" without getting hurt.

After all, it isn't so much the human gun-fodder that wins wars. The loser is usually the nation that first runs out of money and munitions. Armies nations can always find.

Should the world ever become civilized enough to do all its fighting with robots, if it is then still fighting, victory will go to the side with the most resources for waging war. All that the allies needed to defeat Germany was the limitless resources of the United States.

OIL IN 1930.

The year 1930 was marked by victory for constructive forces in the oil industry, according to E. F. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute. At least partial control of production, through unitization and proration, was achieved in a number of important fields.

Crude oil stocks are now about 26,000,000 barrels less than a year ago. The industry is in a stronger position and is farther from demoralization than it has been for sometime. Responsible producers, aided by state governments, have taken a long step forward toward permanently outlawing oil waste and establishing production on a strong basis of supply and demand.

The effectiveness of curtailment proceedings was affected adversely by the development of improved refining methods which make it possible for more gasoline to be produced from a given amount of crude, and by sub-normal purchases on the part of the public. However, demand will come back to normal and increased refining efficiency will, in the long run, benefit both the industry and the public.

All in all, the oil situation is favorable. This is good news to the public, to whom a prosperous, progresisve and efficien' oil industry is a vital necessity.

STANDARDIZING SPEECH.

Motion pictures and the radio are working toward standardization of speech in the United States where dialects are only less numerous than they are in Germany and France. While this is an avowed objective of both, it would also be an ultimate development without any design on their part. People learn to talk by listening, and everyone is now listening to the radio and talkies.

For several years radio announcers have been teaching radio listeners how to speak "high English" by exercising care in their own enunciation and pronounciation. Their efforts cannot have been wholly in vain.

A University of Southern California professor claims the talkies are supplementing this nation-wide school of oral education. He is of the opinion that the talkies will eventually accomplish more in this direction than the radio and that national standardization of speech is but a few years off, due to the influence of talking-motion pictures.

The talkies and radio may in time reform the "American language," but the public is not certain that it yearns for such reform. Would life be as interesting without the soft speech and charming elisions of the Southerner, without the Harvard accent of New England, without the picturesque New Yorkese of Al Smith, and without the drawl of the mountaineer and the peculiarities of speech of the Pennsylvania Dutch and similar provincial colonies?

If the films and other waves succeed in this movement, they will have accomplished something in which a vast educational system has failed.

INSPIRING CONFIDENCE.

Public admiration and confidence are called forth by the action of the largest bank in the second city in the land in authorizing its board of directors to withdraw from the bank's $8,000,000 surplus $4,000,000 for charging off overdue paper and other accounts of doubtful value and to hold the remaining $4,000,000 as a reserve for possible contingencies.

Here is a great financial institution playing fair with the public; exacting from itself the same kind of square-dealing it demands from those to whom it extends credit. It feels that it is right and proper at this time to present to its depositors and stockholders a statement of its position similar to the statements which banks request from those borrowing money from it.

Perfect candor on both sides always makes the best business bargain, regardless of the kind of transaction. Everyone knows that many banks have been hard hit by the collapse of the bond and stock market, by deflated real estate values and by business failures and near-failures, so concealing their condition destroys rather than maintains public confidence. There never was a run on a bank of whose solvency there was no doubt.

This attitude of the banking world is so stimulating that it cannot fail to inspire public confidence. Truth is a potent antidote for the poisonous whisperings and rumors circulated about many of them, and with disastrous consequences for some.

Even book etiquette does not stamp leaving a man when his talk becomes boresome as impolite.

Oh, for a new idea for popular-song writers. For instance, the idea to stop writing songs.

GRAFT

Dismissal of four Indiana postmasters because their appointments are alleged to have been bought and paid for is encouraging. It is something to know that corruption and graft are no longer to go unnoticed and unpunished. It is not so much corruption as public and governmental tolerance of corruption that nations must fear.

Indiana is not the only state in which postmasterships have been purchased from congressmen, or from political bosses who make congressmen and dictate their appointments. Nor are postmasterships the only public posts thus bartered.

The guilty congressman merits impeachment, but is he more guilty than political parties which sell ambassadorships, cabinet seats and other high public appointments for war-chest contributions? It has often been said that only a wealthy man can afford to be an American ambassador. Both the first cost and the running expense are high.

The Indiana outrage—Indiana politics is either rotten or undergoing a thorough cleaning-up — centers public attention upon a weakness in the system of filling elective and appointive offices. Here money invariably talks. Political organizations must have money or die. Therefore, money rather than qualification for office usually decides the ticket; which does not mean that all public officials are unqualified, but only that the system often bars better men and women from public service.

ANNUAL MEETINGS STOCKHOLDERS ARE HELD ON TUESDAY

FIVE INSTITUTIONS ELECT OFFICERS FOR ENSUING YEAR

Corsicana business and banking institutions are preparing for the new calendar year along the same lines as those prevailing in 1930, and with few changes in policies. Practically all of them reported a good business in the past twelvemonth, and anticipations of as good or better business in the year ahead.

Several institutions held their annual stockholders and directors meetings Tuesday afternoon and evening, among them the First National Bank, Corsicana National Bank, Farmers National Farm Loan Association, Central Texas Grocery Company, and the Southern Wholesale Grocery Company.

First National Bank.

Stockholders of the First National Bank of Corsicana decided Tuesday at their annual meeting that there would be no change in the policy of the institution for the ensuing year. J. N. Edens, president, reported that the bank was in excellent condition, and would care for their customers in the usual way, and that no drastic loan policy had been adopted.

All employees will be retained with no curtailment of compsensation for the ensuing year. The bank declared a dividend of $60,000 on December 31.

The following directors were elected for the year: J. N. Edens, C. H. Mills, A. M. Milligan, R. L. Hamilton, Mrs. Kate Whiteselle, C. S. Stroud, J. N. Garitty, J. L. Whiteselle, J. D. Cunningham, C. A. Tatum, John P. Garitty, R. D. Fleming and J. N. Edens, Jr.

Officers elected by the directors include J. N. Edens, president; C. H. Mills, A. M. Milligan, Mrs. Kate H. Whiteselle, R. L. Hamilton and J. N. Garitty, vice-presidents; J. H. Roberts, cashier and trust officer; J. N. Garitty, assistant trust officer; F. T. Lindsey and C. W. Croft, assistant cashiers.

Corsicana National Bank.

Directors and officers of the Corsicana National Bank were re-elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of that institution Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The officers are: J. B. Fortson, chairman of the board; A. G. Elliott, president; C. R. Terry and John T. Fortson, vice-presidents; Sam H. Slay, cashier; N. T. Champion, J. H. Brown, E. J. Hall and M. S. Lackey, assistant cashiers.

Mrs. H. G. Johnston was elected to the board of directors, succeeding her deceased husband. Other members of the board are J. B. Fortson, C. H. Delafosse, F. N. Drane, C. R. Terry, R. L. Wheelock, A. H. Kerr, B. Tinkle, W. M. Peck, A. G. Elliott, John T. Fortson, H. R. Stroube, J. S. Murchison, Wade Smith and C. C. Roberts.

Farm Loan Association.

Affairs of the Farmers National Farm Loan Association are in unusually good condition, according to reports received at the annual stockholders meeting Tuesday afternoon. Joe Sands, secretary and treasurer, reported more loans paid off than usual and a number of new loans made.

The following were re-elected for the ensuing year: President, T. J. Garner; Vice-president, L. B. Wheeler; Secretary-treasurer, Joe Sands.

Directors for the year are T. J. Garner, L. B. Wheeler, A. D. McMullan, W. W. Swafford and T. C. McMullan.

Central Texas Grocery.

Annual reports of the officers of the Central Texas Grocery presented at the stockholders meeting Tuesday afternoon showed that the firm did a million dollar business in 1930.

All of the directors were re-elected at the stockholders meeting at which Charles H. Mills presided as temporary chairman. The directors elected the following officers: W. M. Wilson, president; J. P. Stubbs, vice-president and manager; Lowry Martin, vice-president; J. S. Callicutt, treasurer; Lynn Adams, secretary and assistant manager.

Corsicana Farm Loan Association

Biggest stockholders meeting in the history of the Corsicana Farm Loan Association was held Tuesday morning, according to officers of the association. Reports indicated that the institution had enjoyed a very good year, with less than two per cent of the loans delinquent.

Directors for the ensuing year include C. H. Delafosse, J. L. Marshall, J. M. Blackburn, R. F. Shaw, and C. V. Breithaupt.

Officers for the ensuing year are C. H. Delafosse, president; J. L. Marshall, vice-president and appraiser; N. Suttle Roberts, secretary and treasurer.

Southern Wholesale Grocery.

Annual reports presented at the regular stockholders meeting Tuesday afternoon indicated that the Southern Wholesale Grocery Company had enjoyed a very satisfactory year.

Directors elected included: J. Harris Ransom, R. L. Wheelock, R. D. Fleming, H. R. Stroube, J. S. Murchison, Will D. Nolen and J. H. Sullivan.

Officers elected included; J. Harris Ransom, president; R. L. Wheelock, vice-president; and J. H. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer.

MOTHER CORSICANA MAN DIED IN WACO THURSDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Mary B. Brustrom, aged 84 years, mother of C. F. Borg of Corsicana, died at her home in Waco at midnight Thursday following a short illness, and the funeral was held in Waco Friday afternon at 3:30 o'clock with interment in Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Borg went to Waco Saturday and had remained at Mrs. Brustrom's bedside since that time.

Surviving are her husband, son, grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Borg, Shawnee, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Borg, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Borg and Miss Marie Borg, all of Corsicana; and three great-grandchildren, ary Louise and Joe Borg, Jr., Shawnee; and Patricia Anne Borg, Corsicana.

Paul Carruth Dies as Result Auto Injuries

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Paul Carruth, 20, partially paralyzed by spinal injuries received in an automobile accident December 6, died today.

Carruth was injured when the automobile in which he and Jake Cawley, also of Fort Worth, were riding, overturned near Corsicana. Cawley was killed instantly.

NEW FREESTONE COUNTY OFFICERS NOW IN CHARGE

TEAGUE, Jan. 16.—(Spl.)—Freestone county's new set of officials have their work well under way for the year, and citizens are optimistic over the new regime. Officials for the new term are:

H. B. Steward, representative, holding office for the first time. Mr. Steward, elected to take the place of the veteran legislator John Wallace, is a member of the Fairfield Abstract company.

A. H. Benbrook, county judge, is holding his office for the first time. He has been living in the county since 1915.

John Baggett, county clerk, re-elected for his second term, has lived in Freestone county since 1918.

Verlo Geppert, serving his second term as county attorney, was born and reared in Freestone county. He lives in Teague.

Joel Bonner, tax assessor, is serving his second term. He was reared in the Stewards Mill community.

J. H. Harding, district clerk, is well known in the county, having held his office for eight years. He is now entering on his fifth term.

John Alderman, tax collector holds his office for the first time. He came to Teague from Leon county in 1908.

Jim Sesisons of Kirven is the new sheriff of the county. This is Mr. Sesions' first county office.

W. F. Richardson has served ten years as superintendent of Freestone county schools. He was born in Freestone county and with the exception of a few years spent in Leon county has spent all of his life here.

Mrs. Huron Looney of Teague is the new county treasurer. This is the first office Mrs. Looney has held.

Commissioner's court for the coming term is composed of the following, all who were re-elected: Precinct No. 1, T. J. Hall, Fairfield; precinct No. 2, L. H. Withrow, Teague; precinct No. 3, M. C. Lancaster, Dew; precinct No. 4, W. T. Meador, Wortham.

Jim Sessions, new sheriff of Freestone county, and upon whose shoulders the business of law enforcement has fallen, has been a busy man since occupying his new position. Over twenty-four prisoners were in the county jail at one time during the past week, and many others have been in since that time. Among the offenders were crap shooters and bootleggers.

DAWSON BANKS NAME OFFICERS FOR YEAR NO CHANGES MADE

DAWSON, Jan. 16.—The following directors have been elected by the stockholders of the Liberty National bank:

B. L. Sanders, F. H. Simpson, M. L. Berry, J. L. Taylor, R. B. Rogers, W. N. Matthews, J. M. Sowell, J. H. McCulloch, and C. O. Weaver.

Officers: F. H. Simpson, president; M. L. Berry, vice president; C. O. Weaver, vice president; E. B. Dawson, cashier; J. E. Davis and O. D. Berry, assistant cashiers.

First National.

TEXAS WORLD WAR DEAD HONORED BY TABLET UNVEILING

AUSTIN, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The World War dead of Texas will be honored today when a tablet, 60 feet long and nine feet high and bearing the names of all Texans who died in the service, will be unveiled by Dan Moody, Jr., son of the governor. Members of the legislature and state officials were to attend in additions to hundreds of world war veterans.

The tablet cost $10,000 and contains the names of 246 persons who made the supreme sacrifice.

The presentation address will be made by Governor Moody with Earnest C. Cox, former state commander of the American Legion, as master of ceremonies. The acceptance will be made by Judge R. L. Batts, chairman of the board of regents of the University of Texas. The tablet has been placed at the top of Memorial stadium.

Former Corsicanan Dies in California

Jim Bunch, former resident of Corsicana, died at his home in Los Angeles, Cal. Thursday night at 8.15, according to word received by relatives and friends here. He had been in ill health some time.

EXPLOSION RESULTS DEATH MISS O'NEAL W. M. WILSON HOME

BODY IS BURNED BEYOND RECOGNITION; FUNERAL SATURDAY, EMHOUSE

Miss Ada Kate O'Neal, aged 26, lost her life in a fire that followed an explosion in the home of W. M. Wilson, at the intersection of West Fourth avenue and North Fifteenth street, about 7:30 Friday morning.

Residents of that section of Corsicana were awakened and aroused by a blast that threw glass from the damaged house across the street and which shook houses for several blocks. City Patrolman Marion Griffin had halted for a stop signal at the intersection of Third and Fifteenth, and saw flames shoot from almost every window in the house.

Assist People From House.

He ran to the Wilson home, shouting to some of the members of the family of Dr. J. W. Bergin across the street from the fire, to turn in an alarm. He was joined by one of the neighbors and immediately they assisted Mr. and Mrs. Wilson from the flaming house, and when they were assured there was no one else in the house, closed all openings possible to prevent spread of the flames.

Patrolman Griffin said after the fire that he started into the room in which Miss O'Neal's body was found, but the room was a mass of flames and having been assured that no one else was in the home, did not enter because he feared that the flames would spread to other rooms more rapidly.

Body Is Found.

Firemen arriving on the scene also asked if everyone were out and it was not until a line was taken into the kitchen that Miss O'Neal's body was discovered, badly burned, and almost beyond recognition.

The flames were soon extinguished, and a majority of the furniture removed from the house undamaged except for a small amount of water. Fire Chief Keith estimated damage to the house at $2500 with $7500 insurance, and loss on the furniture at $1,000 with insurance of $3,000.

Blame Leaking Hose.

Extensive investigations made during and following the fire, have led fire department officials to believe that a leaking rubber hose connection allowed the room to fill with gas overnight, and it exploded when Miss O'Neal started to light a fire on arising early Friday morning. The gas had been turned off at a small heater but not at a wall opening. A thorough test for other leaks in gas lines failed to disclose any other cause for the blast.

Miss O'Neal was born and reared in the Emhouse community, but had made her home in Corsicana for several years, and recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. She had been employed in the office of the American Well and Prospecting company for several years, and had an enviable reputation for initiative and efficiency. She was a member of the Corsicana Business and Professional Womens Club.

Funeral Saturday.

Her body was carried to the Sutherland Funeral Home where it was prepared for burial, and then taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. O'Neal at Emhouse, about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held from the First Baptist Church in Emhouse Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with interment in Pattison cemetery.

Surviving are her parents; two brothers, George and "Bud," both of Emhouse; and three sisters, Mrs. Tomie Hatley of Dallas; Mrs. Evredge Stein and Mrs. Willie Sharpley, both of Emhouse.

Justice of the Peace J. L. Cox viewed the body and returned a coroner's verdict of death by burning, accidental.

Corsicana Floral Nursery Co. Flower Shop Is Moved

The Flower Shop of the Corsicana Floral and Nursery company with Mrs. S. C. Bagby in charge, moved Thursday, January 15, from the Hardy-Peck building where it has been located the past year, to the Cooksey building on the corner of Third avenue and North Main street.

Mrs. Bagby invites her friends and patrons to call on her at her new location, which promises to be an ideal one in many respects. The phone number remains the same, 611.

HIGHWAY WORKER HELD CONNECTION MISSING TEACHER

FORT MORGAN, Colo, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The body of Miss Enid Marriott, 28-year-old Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, who has been missing since last November 16, was found today.

Harry E. Moore, a road worker, was charged with abduction in connection with her disappearance.

FORT MORGAN, Colo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Sheriff Rupert Johnson said solution of the two months old mystery of the disappearance of Miss Enid Marriott, Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, appeared imminent today.

Johnson announced Harry E. Moore, a road worker, had been arrested in connection with the investigation and held incommunicado since last Wednesday.

Sam E. Lee of the state law enforcement department said evidence which caused the arrest of Moore included a handkerchief initialed "M" and a bloody shirt stuffed under a bridge over the Bijou irrigation canal. Lee said that when Moore's wife was first shown the shirt she said she believed it belonged to her husband, but later denied the identification. Lee said Moore admitted he was in Wiggins the night of November 16, when Miss Marriott disappeared, but denied he knew the school teacher.

Pajamas identified as belonging to Miss Marriott were found yesterday in the Bijou canal. The identification was by Mrs. C. G. Carlson of Greeley, Colo., Miss Marriott's sister.

Search for her body will continue today, when investigators expect to chop their way through ten feet of ice to reach the bottom of a hole twenty feet deep in the canal.

It is at this point, authorities say, that livestock drowned in the ditch is found.

Rains Past Week Most Beneficial to Growing Truck

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rain which fell throughout the non-irrigated truck growing areas of Texas during the week of January 11-17 were reported by truck growers as being generally beneficial. The bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture announced today.

In some dry land areas it was thought recent rains were sufficient to carry truck crops through to maturity.

Ideal weather was reported in the southern growing areas. In Central Texas, while still too early for spring planting, considerable interest was manifested in planting of spring vegetables.

RESIDENT NAVARRO COUNTY MANY YEARS WAS BURIED SUNDAY

Charles Ruth, aged 68 years, native of Germany, but resident of Navarro county for 45 years, died at his home one mile east of Corsicana Sunday morning at 5 o'clock, and the funeral services were held at te Grape Creek cemetery Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock where interement was made.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. A. Crosby, pastor of the Eleventh Avenue Methodist church here.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. G .C. Goodin, Navarro; and Mrs. M. E. Roman, Corbet; four sons, Carl Ruth, Angus; J B. Ruth, Lockhart; Adolph Ruth, Corsicana; and W. P. Ruth, Corsicana; and other relatives.

Adolph (Babe), one of the sons, was formerly a star pitcher for the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, and later played with the organized baseball clubs of Corsicana in the Texas Association and Lone Star League, and also was an umpire in the Lone Star loop. Several of the boys were well-known amateur baseball players.

The funeral was directed by the Corley-McMahon Funeral Home.

SUNDAY RAID ON HOTEL GIVES NEW RECORDS OF GRAFT

it under guard for more than four hours. Newspaper investigators reported that virtually every speakeasy in the loop was quickly closed. So too were gambling houses.

Cooney is reported to be in Florida. He is known as "The Duke" because he wears a different suit each morning, afternoon and night. In his place the officers found George "Tubby" Miller, whom they arrested, as well as 15 other men and six women. In addition to the records the officers found in the safes about $15,000 in currency, revolvers, blackjacks, a shot gun, and police night sticks.

While the raiders were in charge, two uniformed policeman and two detectives sauntered in, saying they had been under instructions to call at the place every hour to see of there were any violations of the law, but that they had never found any.

"How long," asked Mueller, "have you been blind?"

Woman Is Subpoenaed.

Miss Bernice Shaw, 34, was under subpoena to appear before the special grand jury today and testify regarding her charges that Police Sergeant Herdegen had been a "go-between" for vice operators and Jack Zuta, slain business manager for George Moran's North Side gang. Herdegen was arrested on the charge of buying his promotion with $1,500 obtained from Zuta. Hotel proprietors were summoned to testify regarding her charge that she lived with Herdegen for four years, and bankers to tell of their reputed joint bank account of $16,000.

Former Congressman Harry W. Starr testified in a contest over Zuta's will that the slain gangster told him he was forming an organization to support Mayor Thompson and expected to become a power in politics.

FATHER OF RECENTLY SLAIN YOUNG PORT ARTHUR GIRL IS HELD IN DEATH OF MAN

an automobile in front of the First Methodist church, South, to which she, her father and Adams all belonged. Robert Williams, Texas university sophomore, her fiance, had taken her there hoping the pastor would be able to patch up a quarrel they had had, he told investigators. His explanation was that when he came back to the automobile where he had left the girl, she was dead, slain by a bullet from a .22 calibre rifle with a sawed off stock.

Williams, though originally charged with murder, was "no-billed by the grand jury.

Today's hearing was held in an office above a department store. The office itself and all the surrounding corridors was jammed with spectators.

Many Friends Present

Johnson's aged father was in the crowd as were many of his friends from the Gulf Refining company, which employs him as a teamster foreman. Adams also worked for the company, as a medical assistant and ambulance driver.

Trosclair, young part owner of the pressing shop where Adams died, was the first witness. Told to recount what had happened, he said:

"Well, about three minutes before Mr. Johnson came into my place I walked up to the front. Mr. Collier and Mr. Adams were up there. They were just talking."

"Mr. Adams was on the end of a table. I walked up and I wasn't there but a little while until Mr. Johnson walked in, shot twice. As Collier dodged to the floor Mr. Adams ran out the back and Mr. Johnson walked out."

"Did Mr. Johnson make any remarks?"

No Remarks Heard

"I didn't hear anybody say anything. He (Johnson) was in there just about time enough to fire two shots and turn around and walk out."

"When the shots were fired I jumped five feet. I was hit myself—grazed—on the right hip."

"I went on to the back door and saw Mr. Adams on the ground. I called an ambulance. He seemed to be gasping for breath."

During the hearing a photographer attempted to take a picture of Johnson, who averted his head and whispered to his lawyer. The lawyer told the justice he objected to any photographs and the justice interrupted the proceedings to say that no pictures could be taken there and that if any had been taken they must be destroyed. Subsequently Deputy Sheriff H. F. Baker wrested the camera from the photographer, having left Johnson, meantime, in the lobby of the building.

Leon Wilson, from whom the camera was taken, an official of the Port Arthur News, attempted to take the picture because of inability to find a professional photographer to do so.

Demand Authority of Deputy.

The editor of the News telephone Sheriff W. W. Covington at Beaumont to ask him what authority Baker took the the camera which was later reurned, and was told that the sheriff knew of no such authorization.

Baker took Johnson to Beaumont, the county seat, shortly after 11 a. m.

Collier's testimony in the hearing was substantially the same as that of Trosclair, except that he testified he "felt of" the body and didn't find anything in the nature of a weapon.

Detective Brown said that after the shooting he did not send for Johnson, but that the latter came in.

"He said he had shot a man and wanted to give up. He gave me a gun.

Johnson stands charged with murder in a complaint filed by Police Chief M. E. Word.

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A. B. Johnson, 40, whose comely 16-year-old daughter died with a bullet wound, inexplicably inflicted, less than a month ago, faced examining trial today for the slaying of Ottis Lee Adams, 22, oil company ambulance driver, who had been one of the girl's companions before her death.

Johnson did not explain why he shot Adams Saturday night and authorities said they could not offer any definite theory as to the motive.

Police Chief M. B. Word said investigators only knew that Adams, although married, had been "going with" the girl, Elizabeth; that her fiance, Robert Williams, 18, student at the University of Texas, had objected, and that an estrangement of Williams and the girl had followed.

Two weapons—one a small rifle cut down to pistol length and the other a big six-shooter—were grim central figures in Johnson's troubles. The first killed his daughter, as she sat in an automobile in front of the First Methodist church here. The second was used to kill Adams.

Those guns prevented two proposed reconciliations, according to some of the principals. Williams, who had driven with Elizabeth to the church, in whose shadows she died on Dec. 28, said he took her there expecting to have the pastor intercede and bring them together again. When he returned to the automobile, his explanation continued, he found Elizabeth dead. He was charged with murder, but a grand jury no-billed him.

Adams, so said his chief, Dr. James Long, was preparing, even as he was shot down in a pressing shop, to go to Vinton, La., yesterday and plead with his estranged wife for a new understanding.

While Johnson, who was released on bond almost immediately after the shooting, was receiving assurances of friends who called at his home all during the day, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Adams of De Quincy, La., were making preparations to take their son's body home.

Fail Read Papers And Walk Straight Into Hands Police

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Chicago Sunday morning papers cost a dime.

But the two men who police said robbed the bank at Oaklawn Saturday of $3,479 and hid the loot in a willow tree either did not invest ten cents in a paper, or did not take the trouble to read it. Had they done so, police said, they might have saved themselves the trouble of going back after the money, for the newspapers gave details of how the money was recovered from the tree by the authorities and of how they were posted there waiting for the robbers' return.

As it was the two men came back and were caught. They gave their names as Louis Kasper and John Bartz and were identified, police said, as ex-convicts.

BIRTH ANNIVERSARY ROBERT E. LEE WAS OBSERVED MONDAY

MEMORY FAMOUS SOUTHERN GENERAL HONORED THROUGHOUT SOUTH

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19.—(AP)—From Virginia to Texas, the boundaries of the old Confederacy, the 124th anniversary of the bird of General Robert E. Lee was observed today.

Probably no more impressive service was held than that at Washington and Lee University which General Lee headed after the war between the states.

Virginia honored the memory of her famous son with a holiday in state and municipal offices, banks and schools. Exercises were held at Battle Abbey by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Services were held yesterday at old St. Paul's church in Richmond, and at Stratford, the Lee home in Westmoreland county.

In many parts of the South Lee-Jackson Day was observed, since the 107th anniversary of General Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson is January 21st. The memory of Jackson will be further honored in Richmond Wednesday at the annual ball of the Stonewall Jackson camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, with Governor Pollard and his staff as guests. Proceeds of the ball will be used to erect an equestrian statue of General Jackson at Manassas, where he won the title of "Stonewall."

The beginning of the Confederacy was recalled in Alabama where Governor B. M. Miller was to take the oath of office in the building that was the first capitol of the Confederacy. It was here that Jefferson Davis took the oath as president of the Confederate States.

The day was a legal holiday in Kentcky.

Bands were closed throughout South Carolina and the U. D. C. sponsored services in North Carolina. Arrangements were made to eulogize Lee before the Texas legislature at Austin. In Louisiana the Kappa Alpha fraternity planned exercises at the Lee statute in New Orleans.

LAW ENFORCEMENT REPORT DELIVERED TO HOOVER MONDAY

was put in the hands of the commission and George W. Wickersham, the 72-year-old chairman, exactly 19 months and 23 days ago.

Now that the prohibition report is out of its hands, the commission is to concentrate on other phases of its study. A final report is expected to be made in the spring.

At the white house later, announcement came that President Hoover had begun to study the prohibition report.

His engagement list was held to the minimum that he might devote the entire day to the task He expects to send it to congress tomorrow noon.

No summary of the long document will be issued. The conclusions of the majority of the commission have been placed at the very beginning of the document.

Hides Are Being Used For Money Part Arkansas

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—'Coon and 'possum hides are being used instead of money by citizens of Marion county, Arkansas, where bank closings and drought losses have reduced the cash supply. One man, regarded until recently as poverty stricken, under the new monetary system is classed among the wealthiest residents, he possessing forty coonskins and 325 'possum hides.

COMPETITION IN ARMAMENTS IS HELD CHIEF CAUSE OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Jan., 19.—(AP)—Carrie Chapman Catt, veteran advocate of world peace, opening today the sixth annual conference on cause and cure of war defined what she termed the one cause the one cure.

From countless definitions submitted Mrs. Catt said in the address prepared for the initial session, the studies of the eleven women's organizations in the conference had simmered down to this:

"Competition in armament building is the chief cause of war."

"Pacts of peace and of disarmament are the chief cures of war."

All nations now recognize these facts, Mrs. Catt said, whereas six years ago there was a veritable mental and political chaos on the subject of peace and war.

"The crucial question now is how may our nation be persuaded to asume world leadership in the peace movement—a question which we ought to answer before we part," she concluded.

Complete Dirt Work On Highway Between Kerens and Trinidad

KERENS, Jan. 19.—(Spl)—All dirt work on highway 31 between Kerens and Trinidad has been completed and piling has been driven on all creeks and branches except one small branch known as the east fork of Cow creek, two and one-half miles east of Kerens. It is believed with about two weeks more of fair weather the bridges will be completed and traveling will begin over the new highway.

The New Psychology In Action

The Famous Writer and Authority on Nerves

IN LOVE WITH LOVE.

What self-deceived creatures human beings often are! And sometimes they hoodwink the onlookers as well as themselves.

It fell to my lot, once upon a time, to be the medical attendant in a case that later succumbed to a surgical operation undertaken as a last resort. The patient was a woman of exceptional loveliness of character, and the bereaved husband was prostrated with grief. It seemed as though the blow was one from which he could never recover, for his days were spent in a seclusion from which nothing could draw him.

Some two years later I had occasion to inquire about him and found that he was happily married and the proud parent of a little son. The intensity of the grief with which I had sympathized so deeply was merely the garment of his love of love. He loved himself in love, and he loved himself in grief, and the darling wife was really nothing more than an incident in the case.

Do you think I am something of a cynic when I warn the susceptible ones against over-much sympathy for the crushed and inconsolable spouse, man or woman, who tells you it is a grief that can never be conquered. He is the one that parades his bereavement and his loyalty on every occasion, tells of his frequent visits to the cemetery, of his flower-draped portrait of the loved ones, of the pain that pierces his heart as same expression on the face of his child stirs the mtmory of one who is gone forver.

He is in love with the role he has chosen. If you marry him or her, be prepared in advance to give, hoping for nothing in return. He is an incurable introvert.

There are those again, who are in love with remorse. They never get over repenting. When you assure them that to err is human they insist that their sensitive souls can never be reconciled to the slip they have unwittingly made. Even though it should later prove to be a fact that by a turn of fortune the much lamented deed has resulted in untold good, it brings them no consolation, for they have acquired a taste for remorse and show no inclination to give it up.

There is another role that those introverts seize upon at any opportunity. Times without number I have suffered much from being the occasion of their assuming this role. In this class is the friendly sympathizer who gains entrance to your retreat when you are ill and who loves to hold your gaze on her countenance so expressive of her concern. She begs you to take care of yourself while at the same time she bores you to tears wtih her futile demand upon your attention instead of leaving you a chance to subside into the mental inactivity that canserves the forces of immunity. Such persons meon well, but it is a mistaken kindness that makes them chide you for not letting them know earlier that you were ill.

There are others to be sure who are true extroverts, and have only you in mind when they come for the moment into the chamber where the fight is waging fiercest between life and disease. What an exquisite touch it was that came to me on one such occasion when the pastor bent over my frame in which the spark of life was fluttering but faintly, and said saftly. "Underneath are the Everlesting Arms." Hs was a pastor at heart and mine was the gain.

PLANNED TO PLACE BURDEN OF HIGHWAY BUILDING ON STATE

today the commission would propose legislation designed to effect better propagation of oysters on the Texas gulf coast and increased revenues for the state.

Oyster reefs on the coast would be leased on terms stipulating that the lessee propagate the oysters. The state would gain increased revenue through selling the leases and under private control the oyster reefs would have much better chances of improvement.

The lessee would be allowed possession of the oysters produced.

Inauguration Held Spotlight Monday

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Inauguration of Gov-Elect Ross Sterling tomorrow overshadowed legislation today as members of the 42nd legislature treked back to work after two days of rest.

The fight for a $200,000,000 state highway bond issue was expected to start today. Senator Walter F. Woodul of Huston said he would introduce a resolution to submit the questin to the electrorate.

A public hearing was slated for this afternoon by the senate state affairs committe on Senator Oneal's proposal to allow half of the taxes to go unpaid until July 1.

While the state affairs committee planned to dispose of this bill probably today, Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth said he was drawingu p a bill, a substitute for one introduced by Senator John Hornsby of Austin early last week, in which he would ask that the quarterly tax payment plan be followed and that all delinquent tax penalties for 1930 waived. Rawlings stated his bill might be introduced today.

The house was expecting to thrash out its problems on rules Wednesday while the senate seemed inclined to let the house lead the way in rule solutions.

Legislators to Get Pay After Argument

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The legislators got ther pay today after James V. Allred, attorney general held they were entitled to the increased salary of $10 a day from the start of the session. They received the reduced mileage allowance of 10 cents a mile, however.

Some question had arisen as to when the constitutional amendment increasing the salary from $5 to $10 a day and lowering the milage allowance from 20 cents to 10 cents a mile went into effect, especially in view of the fact that statutes setting the new slaary and new mileage allowance had not been enacted until Friday, three days after the legislature convened. The lawmakers were unable to get any money until the dispute was settled.

Cotton Acreage Reduction Bill

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Introduction of the cotton acreage reduction bill and adoption of a resolution calling on congress to aid in construction of a dam across the Red river at Denison were the major accomplishments of the house of the Texas legislature today.

The house adojurned until tomorrow in commemoration of the birth of Robert E. Lee, confederate commander-in-chief.

Squabbling over the amount of contingent expense money to be allowed members occupied most of the time. A resolution allowing members $50 for stamps and $30 for telephone and telegraph tolls was finally adopted.

The cotton acreage reduction bill, introduced as a soil and water conservation measure, was signed by J. J. Olsen of Yoakum, Coke Stevenson of Junction, and several others. That it would encounter serious opposition was seen when several members declined to sign, many holding it unconstitutional. The bill would set up a commission to determine the acreage of each farm in Texas to be planted in cotton.

The bill, if passed by the Texas legislature would not become effective until at least four other major cotton producing states had adopted a similar bill.

Constitutional Amendments

Two proposed constitutional amendments were introduced. One by J. R. Donnell of Hillsboro would give the state highway fund "one-fourth of the revenue derived from state occupation taxes, except that received from a tax on gasoline or other substances used for propelling motor vehicles all of which revenue shall go to the highway department."

The other would permit retired officers and enlisted men of the national guard, army, navy and marine corps to hold public office.

The resolution asking congressional aid on the proposed Red river dam offered by Elbert M. Barron of Sherman and Speaker Fred Minor of Denton. Preliminary work on the projected dam has been completed congress was urged to take action to provide funds as soon as possible.

Sixteen Bills Introduced

A total of 16 bills was introduced with about 20 others ready for introduction when the house adjourned.

A bill to make it a felony for a person to cohabit with a husband or wife which has been married without the state when such person has living another husband and wife, was introduced by Albert G. Walker of Vernon. The bill was offered as the result of a recent decision of the court of criminal appeals which held a man could be prosecuted only for adultery if he cohabited with a wife, married in Texas, although he also had a wife in Oklahoma. Adultery in Texas is classed as a misdemeanor.

Automobile owners seeking registration licenses would be required to present a receipt showing payment of ad valorem taxes on the vehicle before given a license, under a bill introduced by Joseph McGill and H. P. Jackson of El Paso. McGill said about 80 per cent of the automobile owners were evading payment of ad valorem taxes on automobiles.

Would Equalize Ages

A bill to equalize the ages of males and females in delinquency cases at 18 was introduced by R. H. Holland of Houston. Present statutes set the ages of males at 17 and females at 18.

Holland also introduced a bill to allow judges, in trial of civil cases, to charge the jury in a general way and not confine the charge to special issues. He said charging special issues "bailed up" the jury and often resulted in mistrials. Another bill to reduce the number of mistrials in civil cases was introduced by Holland. The bill would make it necessary to prove that misconduct of an officer in charge of a jury had influenced the jurors' decision before a reversal or new trial was granted.

A bill placing cleaning and dyeing plants under the supervision of the state fire marshal was introduced by Holland.

W. M. Harman of Waco introduced a bill validating the extension of the limits of cities of more than 50,000.

A bill by McGill and Olen R. Van Zandt of Tioga to permit nine members of a jury trying a civil case in the district court and five members in a county or justice's of the peace court to sign a verdict was introduced.

AGED INVENTOR CARRYING ON BECAUSE WORK IS "BEST FUN;" PLANS NOT MATURE

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT, Jan. 19.—(AP)—On the 22nd floor of the Dime Bank building approaching his 88th birthday a white-haired and white bearded man who made rifles for soldiers in the civil war and airplane motors in the world war is carrying on because his "plans are not yet quite mature," and because work provides the "best fun" he has.

Henry M. Leland, the "grand old man" of the automobile industry, with mind as alert as it was back in 1890 when he predicted the future of internal combustion engines, and with a physical vitality that is the marvel of his friends and acquaintances, is in his office every day but Sunday from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. To the office comes a steady stream of visitors, mostly would-be inventors who seek his advice on the merit of certain devices, for this is the "unfinished business" this octogenarian mechanical genius feels called upon to look after before his retirement.

That he will retire only when his heart stops beating is the conviction of his friends. The energy that enabled him to walk up 433 steps to his office and then down when he was 80 years old remains with him, although he has not essayed the climb for some time.

A month hence Henry Leland will have another birthday. His friends will ask him how it feels to be 88 years old, and Henry Leland will heply: "I'm a bit embarrassed; you see, it's the first time I ever was 88."

Coupling an unfailing optimism with his mental and physical alertness, this outstanding figure of the automobile world doesn't admit such a thing as defeat.

When he was 75 he organized the Lincoln Motor company chiefly for the production of the Liberty motors. Some time after the war the company came upon financial troubles and it seemed that a career that had been so replete in achievement was to be capped by failure. Leland made a fighting comeback, however, after the Lincoln company had been taken over at a receiver's sale by Henry Ford. A bitter fight, still in progress, between Leland and his old friend, Ford, resulted from the latter's purchase of the Lincoln properties. Leland claimed Ford agreed to reimburse certain stockholders when the property was taken over.

It was as head of the Cadillac Motor Car company, which he founded in 1902, that Henry Leland introduced storage battery ignition, electric lighting, electric starting and thermostatic conrol of engine temperatures. Today he is still thinking of improvements that can be made in automobile engines and other moving parts of the vehicle whose future he foresaw when most people scoffed at the "contraption" which some called "the invention of the devil."

GREAT OIL FIELD AND ENTIRE CITY NOW ENDANGERED

control of the National Guard to prevent fires.

Capitol Spared Bath.

Because the flow was blowing to the southeast, the exclusive residential district north of the well, the state capitol and the governor's mansion were spared the oil bath provided when the Stout well was wild in November.

Oil and gas were forming pockets in low places in the vicinity of the well, and chemicals were sprayed by the fire department around the well as a precaution to prevent possible fire.

All trains were stopped on the main lines of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Rock Island railroads because of fire hazard.

A barricade was established to prevent the curious crowd which collected from getting in the danger zone.

All major oil companies operating here moved emergency crews to the well to be ready for call. About 25 men were at work on the derrick floor examining connections to devise means of stopping the flow.

F. A. Sooya, Oklahoma City tobacco salesman.

B. R. Stewart, Muskogee filling station operator.

The auto had plunged into a ditch beside the road and overturned.

HYMN WRITER DEAD.

GALVESTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—J. T. Huffmaster, 88, Confederate veteran, pioneer Galveston business man and author of numerous hymn and religious poems, died at his home here yesterday. He was affiliated with the banking firm of Hutchins, Sealy and company for nearly 50 years.

Two Stolen Autos Recovered During Weekend by Police

Two automobiles stolen Saturday night were recovered over the week-end by the Corsicana police department. Dr. J. Wilson David's car was stolen from his home at 1619 West Park avenue about 8:30 Saturday night, and was recovered near the Physicians and Surgeons hospital Monday morning, where it had been abandoned. Number plates were missing, and the car had been driven about 700 miles.

The automobile of Edmoran Lotspeich was stolen from its parking place near the P. and S. hospital Saturday night and was found Sunday, abandoned near its original parking place.

FORMER OKLAHOMA COUNTY OFFICIAL CHARGED MURDER

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 119.—(AP)—A. J. Hardy, prominent Ardmore, Okla., attorney against whom charges of first degree murder have been filed in connection with the death of his wife, this afternoon was driving backk to Ardmore, unaccompanied.

Police at Norman said they released Hardy on his own recognizance upon receipt of instructions from Sheriff Elmer Byrd, Carter county, in which Ardmore is located, during a long distance telephone conversation.

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Sheriff Elmer Byrd announced this afternoon that A. J. Hardy, prominent attorney here charged with the murder of his wife, had been arrested at Norman, Okla., and that two officers would return him to Ardmore late today.

The Hardys had one child, a three year old daughter. Her whereabouts were not known today.

Hardy is one of the most prominent attorneys in Southern Oklahoma.

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charges of first degree murder were filed here today against A. J. Hardy, former county judge and county attorney, by Marvin Shilling, county attorney, in connection with the death of Hardy's wife.

Hardy has not been arrested. He was believed out of the state.

The charges followed a three weeks investigation of the death of Mrs. Hardy, who was shot to death on November 12 while on a hunting trip with her husband.

In a report to authorities of the accident at the time, Hardy said that shot gun was accidentally discharged in the family automobile when Mrs. Hardy's foot slipped off the clutch. She was at the wheel, he said.

Authorities would not disclose what their investigation has revealed.

Hardy Held at Norman.

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A. J. Hardy, about 45, prominent Ardmore attorney, was arrested by Norman police today at the home of a sister here on murder charges in connection with the death of his wife.

He was brought to the police station where he was to be held for Ardmore officers.

Hardy declined to make a statement.

Purnell Is Reported Showing Considerable General Improvement

A. B. Purnell, Navarro county engineer who has been in a Paris hospital for several weeks paralyzed following an automobile accident in which he received a broken back, was reported Monday to have shown a considerable general condition improvement during the past several days, and if his conditon continues to improve, it is expected that he will be moved to Shreveport in a few days, W. W. McClendon, county engineer, said Monday following a visit to Paris during the weekend.

HOOVER HAS MADE MOVE TO ASSURE RED CROSS FUND

when he was before the appropriations committee.

Robinson called attention that "this is four times the amount asked" in his proposed appropriation for the Red Cross.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Relief for the poverty-stricken farm populations of drought states became today the basis for a straight-out struggle between the president and congress.

Determined to make a success of the Red Cross drive for $10,000,000, Mr. Hoover called upon a group of outstanding citizens, led by Calvin Coolidge and Alfred E. Smith, to sponsor the fund raising.

Congress was equally set upon enacting the proposal to hand the Red Cross $25,000,000 out of the treasury. A vote approached in the senate on a motion to defer consideration of the item, which was passed and then reconsidered Saturday. There was no prospect of success for deferment and house leaders were seeking a compromise plan, convinced the membership of that branch would insist upon passing the senate provision or a substitute.

The Red Cross drive in its first week yielded about $600,000. Leaders of the organization complained the congressional proposal was having an adverse effect upon the campaign. Without mentioning the Democratic-sponsored project upon which congress is working, Mr. Hoover yesterday referred to the voluntary subscription method of raising relief funds as "the American way."

Voluntary Aid Sought.

He used the term in announcing appointment of his special committee.

"It is essential," said the president, "that we should maintain the sound American tradition and spirit of voluntary aid in such emergency and should not undermine that spirit which has made our Red Cross the outstanding guardian of our people in time of disaster."

There have been strong intimations that Mr. Hoover would speak even more plainly if congress persists in its present plan, and a veto has been hinted by his friends.

With former President Coolidge, who has accepted the honorary chairmanship, the special drive committee will have as vice chairmen Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis, last two Democratic presidential nominees; Gen. John J. Pershing, and Gen. Abel Davis of Chicago.

Fifty Others Leaders.

Fifty others who have agreed to serve are leaders in politics, labor, religion, the professions and business, education and finance.

The proposal that the senate defer consideration of its relief plan came from Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who urged this method of keeping the fund from conflicting with the Red Cross campaign. Yet Reed is among the Republicans who are ready to support the $25,000,000 appropriation. Democratic spokesmen have voiced a desire to see the Red Cross drive succeed also, but they contend citizens are without money to contribute.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said yesterday that "had it not been for the agitation in congress thousands of men, women and children would have bitterly died of hunger and exposure.

Crop Loans Ready

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The government was ready today to begin distribution of the $45,000,000 emergency relief appropriation as loans for crop production in the majority of drouth stricken states.

Voucher forms, upon which payment will be made distressed farmers in at least 25 states, dispatched to field offices, are to be available today.

Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of extension, who will be in direct charge, considered it probable that three of the four disbursing offices would be ready to receive applications for loans. These were the Washington, Memphis and St. Louis offices.

Indian Families Aided.

ADA, Jan. 19—(AP)—About twenty-five Indian families, averaging five persons each, have been aided by charity agencies here, Mrs. Orville Snead, secretary of United Charities, said today.

Probably many more are in need she said.

Nomination Approved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee today approved the nominations of Herbert E. L. Toombs as marshall in the southern district of Texas and Davis H. Kencheloe, former Kentuck representative as judge of the U. S. customs court.

NAVAL BUILDING BILL APPROVED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The administration's $90,000,000 construction bill was approved by the senate naval committee today, including provision for a six inch gun cruiser, which was rejected by the house naval committee.

The committee voted unanimously to report the bill which provides for one aircraft carrier; one flying deck cruiser with six-inch guns, one six-inch gun cruiser; and four submarines.

An amendment, recommended by the navy department, to appropriate $3,000,000 for experimentation with Diesel engines also was approved. The aircraft carrier, completely equipped with cost $27,650,000; the flying deck cruiser $20,780,000; the six inch gun cruiser, $16,605,000 and the four submarines, $4,400,000 each.

Want Legion Viewpoint.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A concerted drive to get the American Legion on record in favor of cashing veterans' compensation certificates was begun today by house proponents of the plan.

National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil wrote Representative Fish, Republican, New York, that if 15 members of the Legion executive committee make the request, he will call a meeting on the subject of liquidating certificates.

Fish, Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, and other advocates of the plan immediately telegraphed members of the executive committee urging them to request a meeting.

New Orleans Cotton Quiet.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotton opened quiet and a shade easier in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables than due. First trades showed losses of one to three points. The market eased off a little further after the start. March trading at 10.15 and May at 10.39 or two to four points below Saturday's close. Prices rallied slightly later in the first hour, recovering one to three points, at the end of the first hour, the market was quiet and steady.

New York Cotton Steady.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotoin opened steady 3 points higher on old January contracts, but generally 1 to 2 points lower in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool.

There was some foreign trade buying here at the decline, while offerings were light with little or no southern selling in evidence and after showing net losses of 3 to 4 points on the more active months, prices held fairly steady at the end of the first half hour. March sold off to 10.10 and July to 10.02 under the initial pressure but showed rallies of a point or two later on trade buying and covering.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to 2 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 10.15.

LAST OF QUARTET OF "SANTA CLAUS" ROBBERS CAPTURED

EL PASO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The last of a quartet of "Santa Claus" robbers who held up the First National Bank of Cisco on Dec. 23, 1927—Robert Hill, alias Bobbie Catcher—was captured here last night by El Paso officers as he started across the international bridge at Jaurez, Mexico.

Marshall Ratliff, wearing a "Santa Claus" costume, entered the Cisco bank with three companions, among them Hill. They obtained $12,400 in loot and in the ensuing gun fight with officers, G. E. Bedford, police chief, was shot dead and G. W. Carmichael, police officer, was mortally wounded, dying on January 7.

Louis Davis, another member of the bandit quartet, was wounded. He died Dec. 24 in the Tarrant county jail at Fort Worth.

Ratliff was shot down Christmas Eve, near South Bend, Texas. His companions, Henry Helms and Hill, escaped in the Brazos river bottoms but later were captured near Graham.

Hill escaped from the Wynne state prison farm Sept. 28, 1929. He was among eighteen convicts who made a successful break for freedom. Helms paid for his crime in the electric chair on Sept. 6, 1929.

Ratliff, on Nov. 18, 1929, shot Tom A. Jones, special guard in the Eastland county jail, where he was being held for a sanity hearing. Jones died two days later. Ratliff was taken from the jail by a mob at Eastland and lynched on Nov. 19.

W. M. Miller, chief of police at Cisco, was en route to El Paso today to take Hill into custody.

Hill said he attributed his career as a bandit to his having been sent to reform school when he was seven years old.

"Half of my life has been spent in reform schools or prisons," he declared, "and it made me reckless enough to take big chances. I was beaten, abused, treated like an outcast in the reform schools. They broke me. It has made an enemy of society out of me, just as it has hundreds of others who were not hardened or burdened with criminal tendencies when they entered reform school, but who left that way. I was released from reform school when 20 years old."

Hill's youth was thought to be the reason for his receiving a 99-year sentence instead of the death penalty.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Grains went downward early today, influenced by moist weather in domestic winter wheat territory and by fresh declines in wheat quotations at Liverpool. Opening 1-8 to 7-8 cents off, wheat afterward dipped further. Corn started 1-4 to 1-8 down, and continued to sag.

Wheat closed irregular, at 1-4 cent decline to 5-8 advance, corn 5-8@1c up, oats unchanged to 1-2 higher, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equil rise.

TEXAS APPEAL DISMISSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Appeal of the Bain Peanut Company and others of Tarrant county challenging validity of the Texas statute under which a suit for alleged breach of contract was tried in Comanche county, Texas, instead of Tarrant county, was dismissed today by the supreme court for want of a properly presented federal question.

AUTHORIZE TAFT MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Erection in the Philippine Islands of a memorial to William Howard Taft, former governor general, was authorized in a senate bill passed today by the house.

The house amended the measure to remove a limitation of $35,000 and to substitute the word "memorial" for "monument." The bill now goes to conference.

TO PROBE DISTRICT JUDGE.

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)— Gov. Dan Moody today requested the legislature to investigate the conduct of District Judge L. J. Brucks of Hondo, judge of the 38th Judicial District, to determine whether the governor should remove him from office.

N. SUTTLE ROBERTS FIRST WITNESS TO BE CALLED MONDAY

county attorney, said shortly before noon that the investigators would take up the investigation early Monday afternoon.

Only two witnesses summoned to appear Monday morning were on hand—Clark Newlon, Dallas Dispatch reporter, and Gene Cooper, Dallas News reporter. Members of the Cerf family and others expected to testify before the investigators did not appear at 10 o'clock.

Numerous negro witnesses, thought to be before the grand jury in the case against Milliard Cranford for the fatal shooting of a negress here a few days ago in the "hoodoo" case, were being interrogated, and County Attorney Miller said that he would finish up that investigation before getting into the Cerf case.

County Attorney Miller said that there was no statute against kidnapping an adult in Texas, but that there was a severe penalty on extortion, etc., which would be included in the purported procuring of the $15,000 ransom on threats. The statute provides that only penalty is made for the kidnapping of a minor. The prosecutor is of the opinion that in the extortion, and possibly highway robbery angle if a gun was used, a 99-year and possibly a death penalty could be assessed. He perused the statutes during the week-end.

No new developments in the sensational case, which has been the chief topic of conversation in Dallas and Corsicana, were reported duirng the week-end, although numerous conferences between officials were noted.

Out-of-town newspapermen are still assigned to the case and were in Corsicana Monday morning.

A conference between William Conner, foreman of the grand jury, and Hawkins Scarborough, district judge, was held Monday morning, and one between Cleo G. Miller, county attorney, and Rufus Pevehouse, sheriff, was held in Dallas Saturday with William McCraw, district attorney of Dallas, and Hal Hood, sheriff of Dallas county.

It was decided that the Dallas county grand jury would hold off the investigation in view of the fact that a number of witnesses had already been summoned before the Navarro county probers.

A conference was held here late Saturday between Captain of Detectives Leonard Pack and Sgt. Will Fritz of the Dallas detective force and Will S. Knight, chief of police, who are also working on the case.

No intimation of any of the findings of new angles to the case were reported by any of the officers working on the case over the week-end. Other conferences between local officials were expected during the day.

Nothing new in the case has been intimated by officers or members of the Cerf family.

OPTIMISTIC REPORT MADE BY EMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An optimistic report on employment conditions through the southwest was presented today to the president's special employment committee by J. L. Lucey, who has been assisting organization here.

Several emergency arrangements may increase employment permanetnly, he said.

Among these he cited adoption of a three eight-hour shift plan by the mid-ontinent oil industry.

He estimated that Red Cross distribution of garden seed free to farmers in need had resulted since the fall in enabling the planting of 86,700 acres of food crops in Arkansas, with 50,000 acres similarly planted in Texas.

"In my opinion there will be a little less of the unemployment problem in Texas after March 15," Lucey concluded.

Would Speed Up Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Legislation to speed up unemployment relief through public construction was approved today by the senate judiciary committee.

The committee voted to report the bill recommended by the justice department to allow the government to acquire sites desired for public construction by payment of the estimated value without waiting for completion of condemnation cases.

Claimed Standard Directs Oil Umpires

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charging that the Oklahoma corporation commission has assumed legislative powers and that umpires "directed by the Standard Oil company" have been delegated authority in proration, Robert Galbreath, Tulsa, democrat, today asked that Governor W. H. Murray advise the house why he does not "remove obstacles referred to."

Galbreath, in a resolution, suggested that the umpires be replaced by men "who are judge and jury and from whom there is no appeal."

Four Jurors Are Selected in Trial Of Murder Case

CHILDRESS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Four jurors had been selected today for the trial of W. H. Stroud of Odell, charged with murder in the death of Wayne Lawson, Tolbert mail carrier, in 1928. The case was transferred from Wilbarger county. It was expected the jury would be completed today.

Fifty witnesses had been summoned by the state and ten for the defense.

Stroud was given a three-year sentence at his first trial, in April 1929. The case was reversed and remanded, then, at a second trial in Vernon last summer, the jury failed to agree.

John Myers, district attorney from Wilbarger county, is assisting in the prosecution.

Former Midland Bank Official Is Released on Bond

EL PASO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Bert F. Ross, former assistant cashier of the First National Bank at Midland, indicted on charges of violating the national banking act, surrendered to the United States commissioner here today. He presented bond of $2,500 signed by Midland sureties, and it was arpproved.

Ross was named in a secret indictment by a federal grand jury some time ago. Learning of the indictment while in Brownsville, he returned to Midland, arranged for bond, and came here to surrender.

The indictment charges misapplication of $404.11 and $1499.11, also false entries.

FILIPINO BUTLER KILLS PRETTY GIRL AND TAKES OWN LIFE

"LAST TRICK" ENACTED BECAUSE LOVE COULD NOT FIND WAY OUT, HE SAID

ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The "last trick" of Jose Cruz, 30-year-old Filipino amateur magician and butler of Asa G. Candler, Jr., was written into DeKalb county records today as the murderer of Miss Gladys Frix, pretty 19-year-old stenographer, and his own suicide.

After discovery of the bodies of the couple yesterday in a parked automobile on the Candler estate, officers found a note in the Filipino's room, scrawled on a child's slate, which said: "This is my last trick and I hope you enjoy the performance."

On Cruz's body was found an unsigned note which said:

"To whom it may concern:

"We, Gladys Frix and Joe Cruz, are taking our own lives because we love each other but due to the objections of Louise Frix (sister of Gladys) and Mrs. J. T. Clay (grandmother), we cannot find a way to be together in peace."

The coroner's jury did not believe there was a suicide pact since the note bore no mark from the girl. Testimony before the coroner's jury showed that Miss Frix's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Frix, had forbidden Cruz to call at their home or to see their daughter. Frix is a railroad engineer and was on his run to Chattanooga when his daughter's body was discovered. Other testimony from relatives of the girl said she had feared Cruz. She made her fatal date with him Saturday night through her cousin, 18-year-old Miss Day Adair, at his request.

UNEMPLOYED STAGE RIOTS SUNDAY NIGHT IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rioters fought with police last night as a forerunner to a scheduled "hunger march" to the San Francisco city hall today.

Twice police answered riot calls last night from the curbstone meeting place of the unemployed where officers said more than 1,000 men congregated.

The second time a mob attacked police in an attempt to free James Lacey, 33, whom authorities described as "a known agitator" and leader of the demonstration.

Four policement held the crowd at bay until reserves arrived and dispersed the demonstrators.

The first riot call was turned in when a crowd gathered around two rival soap box orators who engaged in fisticuffs after failing to out-shout each other.

These two orators, Lacey, and three other alleged agiators were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY LIMESTONE COUNTY STABBED AT KILGORE

MEXIA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—District Attorney Sam McCorkle of Mexia was stabbed in the breast, but not seriously injured in an altercation with a man at Kilgore Saturday.

McCorkle said he had been attorney for a Longview woman in a civil suit, and the woman's husband, meeting him at Kilgore, asked him to withdraw from the case. When McCorkle refused, a fight began, and McCorkle was stabbed once with a pocket knife.

Kilgore is about 125 miles from Mexia and recently has experienced boom conditions with discovery of oil nearby. McCorkle is district attorney for the Seventy-Seventh Judicial District and maintains an office at Kilgore.

Charges of Murder And Sedition Filed Against Eighty

MANILA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charges of murder and sedition were filed today against 67 men and thirteen women colorums or religious fanatics involved in an uprising last week in Pangasinan province in which several persons were killed.

Tomas Confesor, director of the bureau and industry, upon returning from an inspection trip in Nueva Ecija province, said hard times, aggravated by failure of the rice crop, had made that province a ripe field for communist agitation. He said the situation called ofr close watching.

Dispatches from southern places said a general strike of sugar dock forkers and possibly some sugar centeral workers was imminent because of the ferusal of the centrals to meet demands for increased wages. The centrals contended they could not increase the pay with sugar at its present price.

Chicago Cop Says Rutabaga Is Very Dangerous Snake

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP)—A rutabaga is just a snake in the grass to one Chicago policeman.

Prof. August Vollmer, famous criminologist, revealed this when he made public one answer which he got from an intelligence test of the students in his class for policemen at the University of Chicago. The question was: What is a rutabaga? The answer was: "A very dangerous kind of a snake."

The Machinery of a Bank

MODERN business is of such a varied character, to handle properly and promptly its customers account a bank requires the latest improvements in bank equipment. Obsolete machinery in a factory and equipment in a bank are generally both equally costly and inefficient.

THAT our equipment for handling the needs of customers is modern in every respect can be seen by an inspection of our bank. We invite those contemplating opening a substantial commercial account to permit us to show them our methods of work.
